

Man Fatally Hurt When Automobile Flywheel Bursts

Accident Occurs Immediately After Collision of Mrs. G. M. Mayer's Machine and Trolley Car.

EDWIN DOWDY TAKEN TO GRADY HOSPITAL

Victim Was Standing on Forsyth Street Talking to Friends When Hit by Piece of Wheel.

Edwin L. Dowdy, 36, of 138 Arden avenue, foreman of the paint shop of the Dowman & Dozier company, late Thursday night was dying at Grady hospital, a victim of one of the most unusual accidents in the annals of Atlanta.

Mr. Dowdy was standing on Forsyth street, near Alabama, about 6:30 o'clock Thursday night, talking to two of his friends, when the flywheel of an automobile being driven by Mrs. G. M. Mayer, of 701 North Boulevard, burst. A piece of the flying steel shot through the sheet iron hood of the machine and struck Mr. Dowdy in the head, crushing his skull. No one else was injured seriously, although Mrs. Mayer was bruised and cut slightly.

Take Victim to Hospital.

A. C. Parks, of 137 Grant street, and Arthur Mizell, of West Lake avenue, with whom Mr. Dowdy was conversing at the time of the accident, called an ambulance and rushed the injured man to the hospital, but efforts to save his life were meeting with meager results, doctors reported at a late hour. He was not expected to survive the night.

Mrs. Mayer declared that she was backing her car out of a parking space on Forsyth street between Alabama and Hunter streets, when her machine and an inbound East Point College Park street car collided.

"The injury to the machine seemed slight and I prepared to go on," she told officers. "All at once it seemed that the automobile exploded. I was so frightened and hurt that I do not remember what happened after that."

Mrs. Mayer was removed to the basement of Rich's department store, where first aid was given. She later was taken to her home and placed under care of doctors.

Auto Is Damaged.

Mrs. Mayer's car was badly torn by the flying steel, which ripped a hole in the hood and damaged the engine. The front fender was crushed in when she lost control of the machine after hitting the street car and ran into a post near the sidewalk.

J. M. Quick, a neighbor of Mrs. Mayer's, who was standing near the scene of the accident, rushed to her aid after the accident.

The street car was in charge of Conductor A. G. Smith and Motorman L. G. Self. Mr. Self stated that Mrs. Mayer backed the machine into the car before he could stop, and that Mr. Dowdy was injured immediately following.

Mr. Dowdy has a wife and two small daughters, Kathleen and Karline Dowdy. He also has two brothers, Sam Dowdy, of the West Electric company, and Henry Dowdy, and a sister, Mrs. Dennis Lynch.

Getting There

Only the steady traveler arrives. Step after step is the way to his destination, and the step after step he goes without faltering. The race is to the sure.

Every man marks out his own way through life. Every way is strewn with different obstacles. Every man has his own handicap. But how he progresses and where he goes depends on the traveler, alone.

The will to arrive is worth more than physical power. The strength of the man is the strength of his mind. When you set yourself to do what you think should be done, you are succeeding from the start.

ENGINEER OF FORD STIRS SPECULATION UPON SHOALS BILL

W. B. Mayo Confers at Capitol With Congressmen Who Supported Lease Proposal of Ford.

Washington, January 22.—Falling in their attempt today to get the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill into conference by unanimous consent, its supporters now will endeavor to obtain a special rule to accomplish their purpose.

A meeting of the house rules committee has been called for tomorrow to consider reporting a rule to send the bill to conference instead of to the house military committee. The usual week-end absence may cause the leaders to defer calling up the rule for a vote in the house until next week. If a full membership can be obtained, however, this move may be made Saturday.

Objection by Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, blocked the effort of Chairman McKenzie, of the house military committee, to get unanimous consent to send the bill direct to conference. The New York representative later explained he objected because he favored government operation of the property.

Mayo Stirs Speculation.

Speculation was rife at the capitol late today following a visit by W. B. Mayo, Henry Ford's chief engineer, who conferred with several representatives who had supported the manufacturer's proposal to lease Muscle Shoals.

Although Mayo explained he merely had stopped off between trains to renew old acquaintances, he declined to say whether Ford was considering submitting another Muscle Shoals offer since he had withdrawn the original one after opposition had developed in the senate.

Representatives who talked with the

48 WORKERS CUT OFF CITY'S LIST

Step Is Taken Following Slash in Sanitary Department Payroll—W. F. Carter Discharged.

Forty-eight negro laborers, a majority of whom had been employed as street sweepers, Thursday were cut from the city rolls by the sanitary committee of council, effective February 1. W. F. Carter, a fluster, was ordered dismissed "for the good of the service."

The slash followed action of the finance committee in paying $23,000 from the department's payroll. The committee went even further, and by dismissing 48 employees will save a total of $23,703.25, or $700 more than the appropriation sheet made necessary.

Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman of the committee, pointed out that the two new Elgin motor pick-up street sweepers purchased by the city this year will accomplish more work than has been done by the dismissed negro sweepers. One of the new machines already is in service, while the other, according to Lawrence Manning, Georgia representative of the Elgin Sales corporation, will be in Atlanta within two weeks.

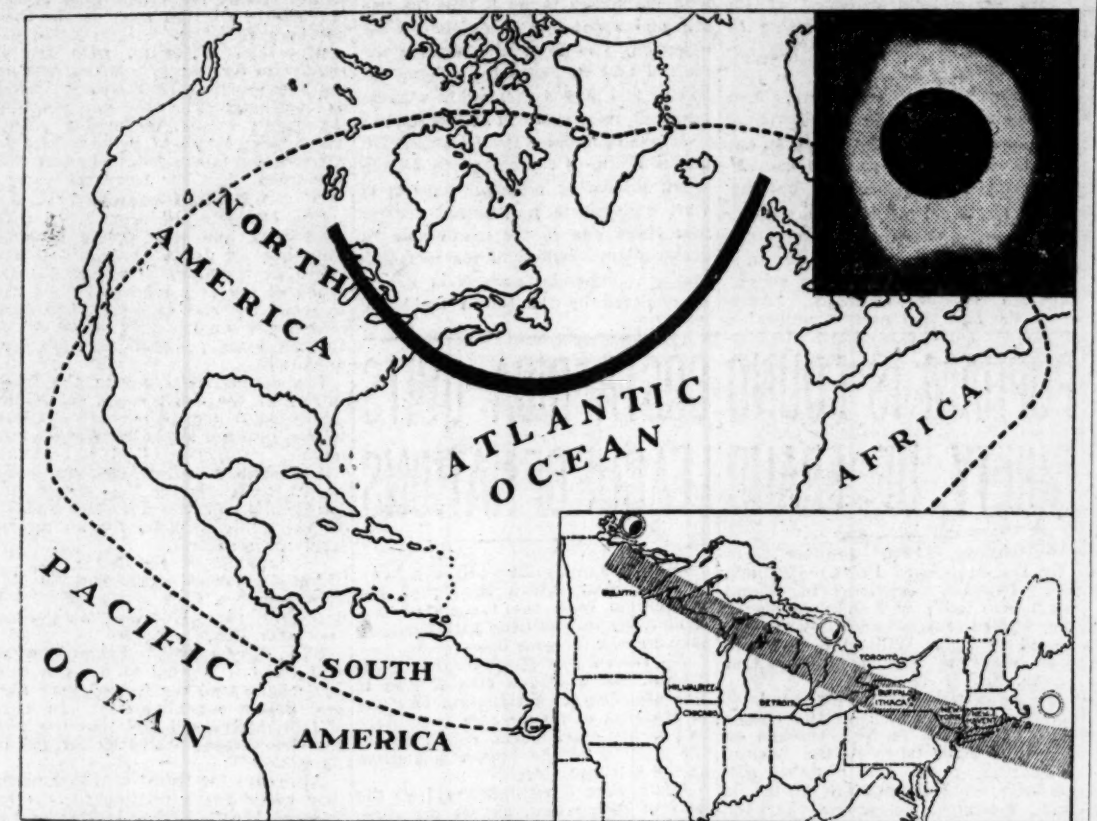

Further steps toward motorizing the entire department will be taken by purchase of four new auto trucks. Each will be ton and a half trucks, two having plain chassis and the other two dump bodies. Bids will be received in Chief Jentzen's office up to noon Tuesday, January 27, when the committee will meet to award contracts.

No reason was given for Carter's dismissal other than that it was "for the good of the service." His place will be taken by Howard Mayberry, whose position as superintendent of night street sweeping was abolished two weeks ago.

On request of members of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, the committee made temporary arrangements to care for cleaning of the municipal market building. The matter will be taken up again at the next meeting.

America Will See Total Eclipse of Sun Saturday for First Time in 119 Years

ECLIPSE WILL BE 70 PER CENT OF TOTAL HERE

The big map shows how the path of shadow during the sun's eclipse on January 24 will run across part of the western hemisphere like the stroke of a pencil, extending from north of the British Isles to northern Minnesota. The oval dotted line running outside of the path of the eclipse indicates the region in which the eclipse will be partially visible. Only persons who live within the solid black line will be able to observe the phenomenon in its totality.

Below—Watching the eclipse in a ball of water; a photograph taken during a recent eclipse in Paris. Such a method of observation, caught here in a great modern capital, goes back thousands of years, being connected with superstitions about eclipses and primitive man's fear of them.

For the first time in 119 years and for the last time until the year 2004, scientists have it, there will be a total eclipse of the sun Saturday.

To millions of persons in the path of totality—stretching in a belt 100 miles wide from Lake Superior through Buffalo to New York, New England and to the Atlantic—a total eclipse will be visible for the first and last time.

Not since June 16, 1806, and not again until the year 2004, will a total eclipse visit the northeastern states. Towns and cities within the path of totality will view the grandeur of the spectacle with best results, but hundreds of cities just outside the path will see a nearly complete obliteration of the sun.

Only Partial in South. Throughout the southern states, however, the eclipse will be only partial, but will be most interesting to anyone who grabs a smoked glass and gives it the east and west. In Atlanta and most of Georgia the eclipse will be 70 per cent. The eclipse will commence at what is known under Greenwich time as 12 o'clock. Translated into central standard time, this

71-Year-Old Solon Routs Hold-Up Man

Then Steps in Chamber to Introduce Bill for More Severe Punishment of Robbers.

Jefferson City, Mo., January 22.—Emerging from a scuffle in the corridors of the state house with a robber whom he had disarmed and routed today, Representative Frey, 71 years old and more than 6 feet tall, wrapped up one bleeding hand and stalked into the house, where he introduced a bill providing stringent punishment for holdup men.

Stepping into a corridor from a room near the house chamber, where scores of persons had assembled, Mr. Frey heard a command "get back in there and give me what you've got." A man thrust a revolver into his face.

Mr. Frey said he immediately grappled with the robber and wrenched the weapon from him. The revolver snapped twice in the struggle and the legislator's hand was cut. The weapon was not discharged. Mr. Frey's assailant escaped.

Mr. Frey's bill, if adopted, would provide a sentence of not less than five years for all persons convicted of first degree robbery and not less than 20 years for robbers who are armed or who have armed confederates.

NEGRO WHO SLEW POLICEMAN AIKEN GETS LIFE TERM

Fulton County Jury Finds Mat Alexander Guilty of Murder, but Recommends Mercy.

Max Alexander, negro, was found guilty by a Fulton superior court jury Thursday night of the murder of Jonas P. Aiken, member of the police department signal corps. The verdict carried a recommendation for mercy, which means that Judge John D. Humphries will sentence the defendant to life imprisonment when court reconvenes this morning.

Trial began Thursday morning and the case went to the jury at 6 o'clock at night. The verdict was delivered to a deputy sheriff, according to agreement of counsel. Court was adjourned shortly after the case went to the jury.

Alexander was charged with shooting to death Policeman Aiken when the latter rushed from his home, pistol in hand, to stop the negro from beating his wife. Alexander, it was charged, wrested the pistol from the officer's grasp and used it with deadly effect when the policeman attempted to arrest him.

The defense claimed that Alexander shot "accidentally" while he was trying to defend himself. The negro testified that the encounter occurred in a dark street, that Aiken was not wearing his coat and that he did not recognize his assailant as a policeman. Aiken struck him, Alexander asserted, and then a fight ensued for possession of the pistol.

25,000 JOBLESS. $15,000,000 LOST FROM OYSTER BAN

Conference Called for Next Monday by Virginia Governor To Discuss Remedial Measures.

Richmond, Va., January 22.—Twenty-five thousand persons, are jobless, packing houses have closed, and approximately $15,000,000 has already been lost as a result of the virtual paralysis of the oyster industry in Virginia, due to the typhoid scare in the west. W. McDonald Lee, commissioner of fisheries, announced here tonight.

The commissioner also announced that a conference had been called for next Monday at Newport News, when Governor Trinkle and other state officials would meet with the oystermen and discuss measures for combating the situation.

CHICAGO COMMISSIONER COMING FOR CONFERENCE.

Chicago, January 22.—Dr. Herman Bundesen, Chicago health commissioner, tonight wired Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, that he would go to Maryland at his own expense, arriving next Tuesday, to investigate the oyster situation there if the governor desired. Governor Ritchie yesterday invited Dr. Bundesen to come to Maryland to investigate the matter.

In his message, Dr. Bundesen said investigations just completed disclosed that there have been 124 cases of typhoid here since November 30. Based on previous records, about 30 cases

REPUDIATION IS CRUX OF DEBT CONTROVERSY BORAH TELLS SENATE

BROKERS LOSE COURT BATTLE FOR INJUNCTION

U. S. Judges Uphold Right of State Courts To Try Alleged Violators of Margin Futures Law.

APPEAL IS PLANNED TO SUPREME COURT

Legitimate Exchange Transactions Upheld, but Judges Rule Injunction Is Not Necessary.

BY CLARK W. BOOTH.

Petition for injunction seeking to restrain the state from further prosecution of cotton brokers operating in Atlanta following indictments by the Fulton county grand jury, was denied in federal court Thursday afternoon and at the same time an opinion was rendered by the three judges in the case which declares in substance that legitimate transactions in "futures" are not in violation of the state laws. The brokers are charged with violations of the Georgia law which forbids dealing in futures on margins.

The opinion rendered was gratifying to counsel for the numerous brokerage concerns, they stated, though Judge Arthur Powell, leading counsel, announced that he would prepare immediately a plea for appeal to the United States supreme court and a writ of supercedens pending hearing of the case in the higher court. Judge Powell's action, it was explained, was to avoid expense of a hearing before a state court.

Disappointed and Gratified.

"While we are naturally disappointed that the federal court did not enjoin prosecution in the state court, thus saving our clients considerable annoyance and expense, still we are gratified by the grounds on which the judges reached this conclusion, namely, that the Georgia law does not prohibit legitimate exchange transactions, and that therefore no injunction is necessary since the defense on that ground can be made in the state court," declared Judge Powell.

Solicitor General Boykin declared after the decision that he would proceed with prosecution of the cases, but that it would be at least a week before the cases would be put on the court calendar.

Boykin Cites Law.

Commenting on the decision Thursday night the solicitor cited a decision in 1907 by the Georgia court of appeals.

French Nation Pays Tribute To Rockwell

Former Constitution Reporter Made Knight of Legion of Honor.

Dispatches from Paris state that Paul Ayres Rockwell, former Atlanta man and once a reporter on The Constitution, has been made a Knight of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services during and since the world war.

Mr. Rockwell, now in Paris, is the elder of two sons of Mrs. Louisa Rockwell, of Asheville, N. C., who volunteered in the French foreign legion at the outbreak of the war in 1914. His brother, Kiffin, an aviator in the Lafayette escadrille, after whom a post of the American legion at Asheville is named, was killed during the war.

GERALD CHAPMAN TO STAND TRIAL IN CONNECTICUT

Transfer Granted by Federal Authorities, Following Murder Charge Made by Hartford Officers.

Washington, January 22.—Gerald Chapman today reached what is regarded as the most critical point in his long, spectacular career, when federal officials agreed to turn him over to Connecticut authorities for trial on charges carrying the death penalty.

Described in police circulars as the most dangerous criminal of the age, Chapman, who escaped in March, 1923, several months after beginning a 25-year sentence for participation in a $2,400,000 mail robbery at New York, was returned today to the Atlanta federal prison from Indiana, where he was captured Sunday after a pistol fight on the streets of Muncie.

He is wanted in Connecticut on an indictment returned at Hartford charging first-degree murder in connection with the killing of James Skelly, a patrolman, at New Britain, last October, and Assistant Attorney General Donovan today consented to his transfer from federal to state jurisdiction so he can be tried.

T. L. STOKES HEADS RETAIL MERCHANTS

Optimistic Addresses Are Made at Annual Meeting by Governor Walker and by Mayor Sims.

Marking the eleventh anniversary of the foundation of the organization, the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, four hundred strong, met at the Biltmore hotel on Thursday night for the annual meeting.

New officers elected for 1925 included T. L. Stokes, president; L. A. Witherspoon, first vice president; and T. K. Johnson, Charles A. Green, L. R. Brewer, W. H. Harris, R. C. Scheider, Jr., R. G. Lyon and A. W. Ellis, vice presidents.

The principal speaker of the evening was Ernest G. Hastings, of Washington, Pa., who delivered a striking address on "The Mental Side of Retailing." Mr. Hastings, former managing editor of the "Dry Goods Economist," is now chief executive of the Caldwell Stores, a large chain store organization of Pennsylvania.

Governor Attends. After dinner had been served President A. L. Myers, who is the retiring head of the organization, introduced Governor Clifford Walker, who spoke a few words of welcome, on behalf of the state, to the guest of honor of the occasion. The governor took the occasion to ask the business men of the city, represented in the membership of the organization, to frown upon all pessimism and pointed to the tremendous growth of the association, of the chamber of commerce, Woman's club, P. T. A., civic clubs and other similar organizations as typical of the growing spirit of service which is daily animating a greater proportion of human activities. He declared his faith that the world is growing better and voiced the belief that Atlanta possessed the "most honest retailers of any city in the world."

Mayor Walter A. Sims, the next speaker, stated that when he heard people ask "What is the matter with Atlanta," he felt like pointing to the

FOREIGN RELATIONS CHAIRMAN REPLIES TO FRENCH DEPUTY

No Justification for Effort at Paris To Place America in Role of Shylock, He Declares.

PROPOSED SETTLEMENT IS CALLED GENEROUS

Gains of France in Territory and Wealth by War Cited To Offset Claim of Sacrifices in Men.

Washington, January 22.—The real problem with respect to the French debt is that of repudiation, Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, declared today in the senate.

Replying to the speech in the French chamber of deputies yesterday by Deputy Marin, Senator Borah said no one could read that debate or the French press without concluding that the "acquittal" of the debt is now the issue, "that no part of it is to be settled, that no part of it is to be paid."

"Of course, that great people can take that position and repudiate their obligation in that way," he added, "but if they choose to do so, the truth of history ought to carry the actual facts in regard to the debt and the conditions and circumstances surrounding the settlement."

Repudiation Real Problem.

"I do not know whether it is exactly just to say that we are now discussing the question of absolute repudiation, but in view of the fact that for five years there has been no offer of settlement; no payment of principal and no payment of interest; in view of the further fact that no specific proposition for settlement has ever been made, that it is not apparently now intended as the press of France and as the speakers upon behalf of those people now indicate, I assume that that is the real problem before us."

Quoting at length from M. Marin's address, in the course of which the French deputy said it would be inequitable for the United States to collect its $4,000,000,000 debt from France, Senator Borah asserted that there was no justification for the effort to place the United States in the position of an "extorting creditor."

Calls Settlement Generous.

"It has displayed none of the qualities of an extorting creditor," he declared. "On the other hand, I undertake to say that the settlement under Great Britain is the most generous proposition for the settlement of international debts that can be found anywhere in history."

Declaring that in the settlement of

Twins-Matching Winners To Be Announced Sunday

Checking of the many thousands of solutions sent to The Constitution in its twin-matching contest will be completed today. The winners will be announced in Sunday's Constitution. Don't fail to get a copy of that paper, as your name may be in the list.

The British debt, the United States had written off from the terms of the original contract the sum of $3,800,000,000. The Idaho senator said the facts were that the American government had been more generous with its associates in the war than it had been with its own taxpayers.

"If we should settle with France upon the basis upon which we settled with England," he went on, "we would cancel by that settlement nearly 50 cents on the dollar on all France owes us. I cannot understand, unless it is a question of absolute rejection of the debt entirely, unless it is proposed to create a condition of public mind and such an opinion in regard to the matter, that it can be— I hesitate to use the harsh word 'repudiation'—unless it can be acquiesced, I will say, on the part of the United States, I cannot understand how any other terms than those which have been offered could be expected."

Senator Borah would recall that France had come to the aid of the colonies out of a love of liberty. He read historical writings to show that jealousy of England brought France into the war, and that also that country had omitted no opportunity to block the new republic's efforts to solidify its position abroad.

MANY PEOPLE JOBLESS ACCOUNT OYSTER BAN

might ordinarily be expected in this period. Of the total number, 90 said they had eaten raw oysters within the period ordinarily considered as the time for infection, Dr. Bundesen said. Only three of the cases, however, were found to have eaten Maryland oysters.

Steps will be taken at the Newport News conference to restore confidence in the oyster, and probably to challenge the western health authorities and "the syndicated sensational sheets" that have caricatured the oyster. The commissioner said, after deploring that although Virginia oysters have a clean bill from health officials, it does not help the situation after the oyster-eating public has been frightened.

It was estimated that approximately 50,000 persons are dependent on the oyster industry in Virginia, many entire families being engaged in the work during the season as their sole means of subsistence.

BROKERS LOSE INJUNCTION FIGHT

the law to establish and maintain a place where dealing in futures on margins was permitted. At the time the opinion was written the court of appeals was the highest authority in the state, and having put that construction upon the statute that injunction must be followed. This decision has, irrespective of the intention of the parties, that it is unlawful to establish, maintain and keep a place where dealing in futures on margins is permitted.

The opinion, which was written by Judge Samuel Sibley and concurred in by Judge William H. Barrett and Judge Nathan P. Baran, covers eight pages of closely-written copy. The petition was filed by the firm of Fenner & Beane as a test case, and other parties interested include Livingston & Co., H. & R. Beer, John F. Clark & Co., wire houses operating in Atlanta, and numerous other firms and representatives of firms doing business in this city.

The opinion first reviews the case and then declares that the prosecution of the cases against the brokers is not construed as a burden on interstate commerce. The next point and one of the most important in the opinion, is that paragraph which relates to the construction placed on Georgia law, applicable to the case.

The opinion says: "...the statute is, we think, to be construed as condemning only gaming transactions and not sales for future delivery where a margin is deposited in lieu of full payment or full credit given. The earlier Georgia decisions do not clearly mark the distinction between contracts for future delivery where there was an intent that the goods bought should really be delivered and those in which neither party had such intent, but assumed all contracts for futures made on margins to be gambling..."

The opinion cites a case in 1900 and states that "contracts for future delivery were held valid though the seller had not the property sold, if either party contemplated an actual delivery; but to be gaming and contrary to public policy if neither party so intended but both expected to settle by the fluctuation in market price of the goods contracted for." The act now in question was passed by the legislature a few years later.

Opinion on Gaming.

The opinion construes trading in futures by persons who never intend delivery as gaming, and declares that the burden of proof is upon those who are engaged in this practice. It further states that indictments against the petitioners for dealing in futures on margins were founded on the ground of prohibiting such; that petitioners are liable in the state court "but that their asserted innocence is ground for acquittal in the state court, but not for injunction in the federal court."

It is on this last phase of the opinion that counsel for the brokers are basing their fight in the state court. Contracts as now used, and which are handled through the New York Cotton exchange and the New Orleans Cotton exchange, read that delivery is contemplated in the transaction.

The case has attracted a great deal of attention since the first move by Solicitor General Boykin—the raiding of the offices of the wire houses in Atlanta and the Atlanta Commercial Exchange.

A grand jury investigation followed and several batches of indictments were found against approximately 100 brokers and their representatives. During the first period of the investigation the Atlanta Commercial Exchange was cleared of any alleged violation of the laws, but later was indicted as an organization.

Appeal to federal court followed and after a temporary injunction was denied by Judge Sibley, the way was paved for a hearing for the permanent injunction before a tribunal of judges.

$5,000,000 MEMORIAL TO EDISON PROPOSED

New York, January 22.—The erection on Fifth avenue of a $5,000,000 building as a memorial to Thomas A. Edison while the inventor still lives was proposed today by Charles L. Eidlitz, chairman of the board of directors of the Edison Pioneers, composed of 65 men who worked with the electrical wizard prior to 1889.

Senators' Spat Over Speech STIRS SERENITY OF SENATE

Washington, January 22.—The national conference on the cause and cure of war caused a ripple on the surface of the senate today during one of the calmer moments, when Senator Randall, democrat, Louisiana, sought to have printed in the congressional record an address delivered at the opening session of the meeting by Judge Florence Allen, of the supreme court of Ohio.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, objected to the insertion of the speech in the record unless it was passed upon by the printing committee, of which he is chairman, but suggested he would withdraw his objection if the Louisiana senator would take responsibility for the address.

"That is an unprecedented stand," declared Senator Randall. "Aside from the fact that every senator has availed himself of this privilege, I thought this body was composed of chivalrous men."

There was applause in one of the galleries and a warning was voiced by the chairman.

Senator Randall then started to read the speech to get it into the record, and Senator Moses withdrew his objection. The Louisiana senator explained that he heard the address delivered and agreed thoroughly with its premises, relating to "a cure for war."

At the conference itself tonight, Dr. Julius Klein, of the commerce department, discussing economic aspects of war, declared in a prepared address that there was in the world now "a growing appreciation of the fact that lasting commercial success is not to be achieved by the brutal tactics of war."

POPHAM IS FOUND COSTA RICA QUILTS GUILTY OF FRAUD LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Tallahassee, Fla., January 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—William Lee Popham, indicted in federal court here today for fraudulently obtaining United States mails, was sentenced by Judge William L. Grubb to four years in the Atlanta federal prison.

He was released under bond of $5,000 pending action of the circuit court of appeals at New Orleans on a writ of error taken by the defense. A hearing on the writ probably will not be reached for several months, it was indicated, inasmuch as the indictment requires two years' notice of withdrawal she would not cease to be a member until January 1, 1927. Officials of the league said, however, that they hoped in the meanwhile to induce her to rescind her decision and resume membership.

The letter containing notice of resignation, enclosed a check for $18,677 in payment of back dues for the years 1921-1922 inclusive. Costa Rica's annual assessment was about $5,000, her dues, like those of some of the other Latin American states, being reduced considerably some time ago.

During the budget hearings the failure of Costa Rica and some other countries to meet their financial obligations to the league were unfavorably commented upon. The reductions of assessments were based on the assumption that the financial situation of the league would improve.

This is the first case of a resignation from the league and it is said to be an entirely separate one, there being no indications that it would be followed by other Latin-American countries.

Jersey Rum Jury UNABLE TO AGREE

Jersey City, N. J., January 22.—The jury in the trial of 12 Weehawken and Jersey City policemen and civilians reported this morning that it was unable to agree on a verdict. The judge discharged the jury.

The 12 men were charged with conspiring to violate the state prohibition laws. The jury had been out since 3:07 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Assistant prosecutor McMahon, of Hudson county, announced that the cases would be retried, possibly within a few days.

For the last 15 of the 18 hours and 53 minutes that the jury had been out, H. A. Laueinstein, the foreman, reported nine men had stood for conviction, with the remaining three stubbornly refusing to change their acquittal vote. The first ballot was eight to four for conviction, it was reported.

Assistant Prosecutor McMahon said the new trial will be held in the same court and the work of drawing a new panel of men soon would be started.

The police defendants, all in uniform, smiled broadly. George Cutler, defense counsel, said he was "very satisfied to have that jury out of that room."

BETHLEHEM STEEL SCORES RECOVERY

New York, January 22.—Scoring a remarkable recovery in the final quarter of 1922 the Bethlehem Steel corporation increased its net earnings more than $3,000,000 over the preceding three months to a total of $9,550,715, which brought its income for the year to $39,300,480. Although the 1922 earnings were about $3,500,000 less than in 1923, the corporation was able to close its year with a larger surplus, which amounted to $2,368,027.

The gain in Bethlehem's earnings, which were established on lower prices for steel, measures the extent of the improvement in the steel industry which took place in the last quarter of the year, particularly after the election. The corporation was the first of the large steel companies to report its earnings.

The fourth quarter's earnings, President E. G. Grace announced, "afforded the opportunity for the payment of fixed charges and dividends on the preferred stock, left $1.08 earnings per share on the common stock, as compared to a deficit of 54 cents a share in the third quarter, thus reflecting the improved conditions. In the fourth quarter, the plants of the corporation were operated at a rate of 99 per cent of capacity as against 42.5 per cent for the third quarter. Earnings for the year amounted to $2,560 a share on the common stock."

The value of orders on hand December 31, 1922, was $77,049,619 compared with $49,907,161 at the end of the third quarter and $53,265,000 as of December 31, 1921.

Three Courses Given Minority Dissenters To Nickel Plate Plan

New York, January 22.—Three courses have been opened to minority stockholders of the five railroads involved in the proposed $1,500,000,000 "Nickel Plate" consolidation in the Van Sweringen interests, which will attempt to bring an officer and attorney in dissenting to the merger, according to the lease terms which were made public today.

Under the provisions, which are expected to receive the approval of all constituent companies, dissenting stockholders may sell their shares to the new owners at an average price, based on the market value over a period of six months preceding ratification of the lease; call for an appraisal of their holdings, or accept the rental basis through which dividends are guaranteed on undeveloped stock.

Minority stockholders who take hostile action against the lease in an effort to block the merger will be deprived of its privileges. They will be permitted, however, to apply to the interstate commerce commission or to the United States district court for an appraisal of their holdings if they are dissatisfied with the offer of the Van Sweringens.

GIBBY GETS LIFE; TO ASK NEW TRIAL

A few minutes after Judge G. H. Howard, in Fulton superior court early Thursday, sentenced Turner Gibby, 16-year-old boy, to life imprisonment for the murder of his brother-in-law, John Quinn, a Negro, 21 years old, an appeal from the sentence, and formal motion for a new trial probably will be filed as soon as the case has been recorded.

A verdict of guilty, with recommendation for mercy, was returned by the jury shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday morning. The case was put into the jury's hands Wednesday night. After three hours of deliberation, no agreement was reached, and court was adjourned until the morning.

Boy Is Unmoved.

The boy received the verdict with head erect and eyes driven straight into those of Judge Howard's as the latter explained to him that the decision of the jury meant that he was to spend the rest of his natural days behind the somber, gray walls of the Georgia state penitentiary. He was unmoved.

His mother, sitting near the inner railing of the court room, sobbed as she heard the verdict pronounced. Other women grouped about her wiped away tears.

Immediately after sentence was passed, attorneys for the defense, W. W. Tindall, Claude Brackett and A. B. Giles, began plans for an appeal from the sentence.

Judge Howard supplemented his brief sentence with words of advice, declaring that it was "a painful thing to see a young man like you."

"You are a boy," Judge Howard said, "and it is hard to tell you that you must spend the rest of your natural life in prison. In spite of that, however, I feel that the jury has shown great sympathy for you in its verdict."

Attorneys for Gibby also announced they would file a petition for the release of Gibby, brother of the young slayer, and Thomas Gibby, his father, who were jointly indicted with Turner in the slaying. These two have been in jail since the slaying two months ago, and it was the fact that Gibby was a young boy back to Atlanta voluntarily to stand trial for his act.

Three Courses for Jury.

Judge Howard charged only on the laws of murder and justifiable homicide. Only three courses were left for the jury—either to impose the death penalty, life imprisonment, which comes with a verdict of guilty, or recommendation for mercy, or free the accused boy.

Gibby shot John Quinn to death two months ago at the corner of Stewart avenue and Wells street. The state sought to prove he shot without provocation, and that he had gone "gunning" for Quinn. The defense, however, contended Gibby shot in defense of his own life, and that Quinn was advancing upon him in a threatening manner.

PRINCE OF WALES STRUMS UKULELE FOR SICK FRIEND

London, January 22.—The Prince of Wales knows what it is to be bedridden from a hunting accident, so when his friend, Captain Mike Warren, was put to bed in the Savoy hotel, after dismounting his horse in the middle of a fence, the prince thought something ought to be done about it.

The prince, who is a devoted hunter, carried a black bag, to which he clung despite the anxiety of the hotel staff to carry it for him, Wales went to see the captain.

In the invalid's room the black bag proved to contain a ukulele, in the strumming of which H. R. H. is an expert. The royal concert was long and jazzy.

CALIFORNIA SEEKS TO MAKE EXAMPLE OF GIRL MATRICIDE

San Francisco, January 22.—The state will insist that Dorothy Eillingson be punished and will not be satisfied with her commitment to a reformatory, according to District Attorney Matthew Brady.

Brady made this first indication of the attitude of his office toward the 16-year-old self-confessed matricide Tuesday after juvenile Judge Frank Murasky had continued Dorothy's case for a week.

The state is not vindictive, nor can it afford to be maudlin," said Brady. "We want this girl punished, not so much because she has murdered her mother, as to provide an example for other children seeking to get a kick out of life via the dangerous path she has trod."

Brady indicated his belief that the girl's mentality is sound, while Attorney Mooslin, her attorney, expects to base her defense on what he terms her "sick" state of mind.

ROSA PONSSELLE BETTER AFTER ACUTE ILLNESS

New London, Conn., January 22.—Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera company singer, who was stricken yesterday with an acute attack of stomach trouble, passed a restless night, but was more comfortable today, her physician reported. Dr. George P. Cheney and two trained nurses were in attendance through the night. Dr. John Sullivan was called for a consultation this forenoon.

Slight hemorrhages of the stomach during the night were said by Dr. Cheney to be an accompaniment of her illness not unexpected.

PASTOR AIDS POLICE IN PORTSMOUTH RAIDS

Norfolk, Va., January 22.—Raids in all sections of Portsmouth assisted by Dr. H. F. Jones, pastor of Port Norfolk Baptist church, were inaugurated today. The raids resulted in the arrest of 21 men charged with violating the Layman act, attempting to bribe an officer and attempting to purchase "protection" from the police. All arrests were made on warrants secured by one of the officers of the raiding party and many of the warrants show the name of Rev. H. F. Jones as witness.

CLAIMS HAYNES WINKED AT BOOZE

Norfolk, Va., January 22.—S. Warner Ironmonger, former deputy U. S. marshal and now chief of police of Norfolk, testifying today at the trial in U. S. district court of Rex D. Sheldon and William Baker, declared Baker told him soon after his arrest that Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair were "fired" to permit the smuggling into Washington of thousands of cases of whiskey for the Shrine convention in 1923.

A. L. Ashburn, federal prohibition agent, testified the defendants told him that "Colonel Blair and Major Haynes and a lot of department of justice men had been fixed to get the liquor into Washington."

Chief Ironmonger testified that Baker told him that Sheldon was a relative of Commissioner Haynes and that he knew of the plan for the wholesale smuggling and had virtually agreed to "wink" at the activity.

Sheldon and Baker are on trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with the alleged activities of the steamship Istar.

Chief Ironmonger declared that the United States marshal's force in New York city blocked his efforts and those of Prohibition Agent T. J. Macey to apprehend S. L. Osborne and N. L. van Dyke, alleged heads of the rum-running fleet off the Atlantic coast, whose operations were said to net $8,000,000 daily. He said two deputy marshals refused to "have anything to do with the two detectives from the south," and said they telephoned Baker and asked him how much it was worth to him to have Osborne and Van Dyke turned up. The police chief testified the two deputy marshals offered to capture Van Dyke and Osborne and turn them over to Ironmonger and Macey if Baker would pay them $300. His testimony in this regard was later confirmed by Baker, who took the stand in his own defense.

"I had no dependence in the two deputy marshals assigned to me," Ironmonger asserted. "I didn't like the attitude they took in regard to the case."

"They blocked you in every way they could, did they not?" asked defense counsel.

"Yes, sir," the witness replied.

The government rested its case after the testimony of Ashburn, Baker, then took the stand and told of alleged operations of the steamer Istar.

HAYNES REFUSES TO DIGEST STORY.

Washington, January 22.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes' only comment today on testimony in the Norfolk liquor cases referring to him was that he would not "digest such a story by a denial."

NEW DOUGH FORMULA KEEPS BREAD FRESH

Paris, January 22.—A journeyman baker claims to have found a formula for bread dough, the use of which will keep loaves in an edible condition for months or even years. Recent laboratory experiments have proved that the loaves could be kept relatively fresh for ten months, while the inventor, Jean Matti, says this period will be extended to two years.

Kiwanis Clubs of Georgia Will Be Asked To Assist In Fight To Ban Pistols

Fitzgerald Club Leads Way, Indorsing Constitution's Crusade, and Will Ask State Action.

After unanimously adopting resolutions which indorsed the campaign launched by The Atlanta Constitution to outlaw pistols, the Kiwanis Club of Fitzgerald, Ga., has decided to take the matter of pistols before the state meeting to be held in Macon, January 23, and urges that Kiwanis clubs all over the state join in the crusade against concealed weapons.

Resolutions presented to the Fitzgerald-Kiwanis club were adopted at the last regular luncheon of the organization, held at Fitzgerald. They are as follows:

"Resolved, That we heartily indorse editorially now appearing in The Atlanta Constitution, advocating the enactment of laws which would prevent the legal sale of pistols in this state, and that we invite all clubs in this state as well as our state organization, to use their best endeavors to effect this result."

After some discussion, this resolution was adopted and a committee composed of W. R. Bowen, W. N. Smith and Bruce Noy was appointed to invite other Kiwanis clubs to join in this movement.

Opposes Pistol.

All right-thinking persons should join the crusade against concealed weapons launched by The Atlanta Constitution, according to a pertinent letter received Thursday from Robert Bryan Harrison, director of a School of Health, who unqualifiedly goes on record as against hidden pistols under any circumstances.

"Your movement for the suppression of the pistol," Mr. Harrison says, "should have the unanimous support of all right-thinking people, and we congratulate you on the success of your movement up to this time."

Many other letters, warmly indorsing the campaign against the infernal pistol, opened by The Constitution, continue to pour in from all over the country and it is believed that sentiment has been crystallized that will, before long, result in the presentation to the state legislature of a bill outlawing firearms.

Below are given some of the expressions published editorially in the press of the state:

FROM THE MONROE TRIBUNE.

The Atlanta Constitution has inaugurated a war on pistols and pistol-toters. The only way to launch pistols is to make it a felony to manufacture or sell them.

FROM THE CARTERSVILLE TRIBUNE-NEWS.

The campaign to stop the sale of pistols is a good one. The hidden pistol is a menace, and one that an enlightened people should not tolerate. The public sale of any longer. When the sale of pistols and stump liquor is stopped, the jails will be no longer

KNIGHT OF LEGION

PAUL ROCKWELL.

TRIBUTE TO ROCKWELL BY FRENCH NATION

of the war. The other survivor is William Thaw, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Among Mr. Rockwell's achievements were service in the field of action, as a war correspondent for a group of newspapers, on the French front, and since then as president of the committee of the Lafayette Legion. In nominating Mr. Rockwell for this great honor, the French government has recalled the career of Kiffin Yates Rockwell, Paul's younger brother, who was killed in an air fight over Alsace, on September 25, 1916, and decorated with the Legion of Honor posthumously.

Since the armistice, Paul Rockwell has become one of the leading authorities on the history of American service in the foreign legion and in the original Lafayette escadrille, and has kept in touch with all the members. In this way, Mr. Rockwell has been able to see that American writers' comments have been well represented in the "Anthology of Writers, Combatants in the Great War."

Plans Cemetery for Aviators.

Mr. Rockwell has recently given much time to a plan for bringing together in one cemetery, or rather a park, the bodies of all American aviators who fell in France.

Paul Ayres Rockwell was born February 3, 1889, at "Beechwood Plantation," near Nichols, Marion county, South Carolina. He is a son of the Rev. James Chester Rockwell and Louisa Ayres Rockwell, and a grandson of Captain Henry C. Rockwell, of the 51st North Carolina infantry, C. S. A., and Major Enoch Shaw Ayres, of the South Carolina infantry, C. S. A.

Paul was invalided out of the foreign legion after being wounded, and Kiffin left the legion for the air service, in which he met his death, after bringing down several German planes and winning promotion, which was announced after his death.

Paul Rockwell paid a visit to Atlanta last summer.

BANDIT IS RETURNED TO FEDERAL PRISON

authorities custody over Chapman was reached at a conference between Mr. Donovan and State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, who assured the assistant attorney general that evidence against the man in the murder case was "indisputable and complete."

Details of the transfer of jurisdiction over the prisoner remain to be worked out, but Mr. Alcorn said it was merely a question of legal technicalities and with the department of justice cooperating, he was convinced Chapman could be placed on trial when the case is called at the March term of court in Hartford.

GERALD CHAPMAN BACK IN PRISON IN ATLANTA.

Gerald Chapman, notorious mail robber, whose name has been linked with some of the most daring exploits of banditry this country has ever known, and who for the past two years has played a successful game of "hide and seek" with officers of the law, is once again behind the walls of the federal penitentiary to continue service of his 25-year sentence which was interrupted almost two years ago when he escaped from the prison.

The felonious "Count of Gramercy Park," as he has been familiarly called, arrived in Atlanta Thursday morning, a grim, worn figure, with an air of perfect resignation. He was captured a few days ago at Muncie, Ind., where he was taken into custody only after a gun battle had ensued in which the officers who captured him barely escaped with their lives.

Heavily manacled, Chapman was brought to Atlanta under conditions of utmost secrecy. So fearful were authorities that some of his confederates might attempt to secure his freedom, that his departure for, and arrival in Atlanta, was barely more than whispered. The route taken from Indianapolis to Atlanta was kept secret and guards were placed along the way wherever the train stopped, to keep a watchful eye on suspicious characters.

Reaches Atlanta Early.

Chapman arrived in the Union station early Thursday morning, handcuffed and closely guarded by a band of guards from the Atlanta penitentiary and postal inspectors from Indianapolis. To the curious crowds who peered into the face of the notorious bandit, eager to glimpse the countenance of one who has gained international notoriety by his sheer boldness, Chapman paid not an iota of heed.

He was placed into a waiting automobile and whisked to the penitentiary ground in all haste. Attached at the institution say that despite his reported ill health, and his declaration that he would not live to complete his sentence, Chapman appeared to be in better physical shape than when he took leave of the penitentiary 22 months ago.

As Chapman walked into the institution, silent, stoic and resigned, one of the guards who knew him before his escape, remarked:

"Back again, Chapman."

"Yes," was the terse reply.

"Picked up a little, haven't you?"

"A little." This without animation.

Without ceremony Chapman was placed in the isolation cell to await his assignment, which probably will not be given for several days. He has been placed in the third grade of prisoners, who receive few privileges and he has lost all his "good time" allowance.

Postal officials, who accompanied Chapman to Atlanta, intimated on their arrival here that George Anderson, Chapman's partner in the $2,400,000 mail robbery in New York City in 1921, who also was sentenced to 25 years, and who escaped shortly after Chapman by tunneling his way under the walls at the prison, may soon rejoin his confederate at the penitentiary. Anderson is said to have been in Muncie at the same time Chapman was captured, but managed to elude the officers. His capture, however, is expected soon, the inspectors said.

Makes Daring Escape.

Chapman first sprang into prominence after his commitment to the penitentiary when he made one of the most bold and daring escapes in the annals of the institution. He, with his companion, Frank Gray, overcame a guard, saved the bars of the prison and escaped, after what attaches at the prison said was probably the most carefully planned escape in the institution's history.

The two men went from the prison to the home of W. H. Edwards, whom they attempted to force to hide them. Upon his refusal, Chapman and Gray made him accompany them to the street car line, later paying $1,000 for a taxicab to Athens, it is said.

Two days later Chapman was wounded in a battle in the woods with a posse of officers, near Athens. Gray was returned to Atlanta while Chapman went to the hospital in Athens. Once again he made a daring escape when he sent the nurse for a drink of water, tied the sheets together and escaped. A vain hunt was conducted for him in the neighborhood of Athens.

Chapman was hunted all over the country, every now and then his name springing up in connection with some plot of robbery or banditry. He was not captured, however, until last week when detectives of Muncie, acting on a tip that he was in a certain locality, found him and took him into custody after a furious fight, in which Chapman was badly battered up, according to reports.

ENGINEER OF FORD STIRS SPECULATION

engineer said afterwards that he gave no indication of the motor manufacturer's plans, but simply sought information on the status of the Muscle Shoals legislation. It is understood that the original Ford supporters recently have brought pressure on the manufacturer to submit a bid under the terms of the Underwood bill. They explained that Ford hardly could be expected to make an offer until the bill had advanced further on its legislative course, because the terms of the bill could be altered materially in conference.

Almon Issues Statement.

Among those interviewed by Mayo were Representatives Madden, republican, Illinois, and Almon, democrat, Alabama. The former piloted the fight which led to the house passing a bill authorizing the lease of the property to Ford, and Representative Almon represents the Muscle Shoals district.

After the conversation Representative Almon issued this statement:

"If favorable conferees are appointed, I believe that a bill will be agreed on and accepted by both houses and approved by the president."

"Is that event, I hope that Mr. Ford will become interested in Muscle Shoals again and negotiate with the president for a lease of the nitrate plants and dam No. 2 for 50 years. I would rather it would be leased to Ford than anyone else, for I believe that more people, and especially the farmers, would be benefited."

Underwood Ignorant of Offer.

Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, author of the bill, said he had no information concerning reports of a new Ford offer, but there was nothing to prevent Ford or anyone else from leasing Muscle Shoals under the terms of the bill. The bill, he explained, places the leasing of the property in the hands of the president, who would be required to hold the leasing contract within the provisions of the measure.

If house leaders succeed in getting the bill in conference senate leaders supporting the Underwood bill are prepared to request the selection of conferees by a direct vote of the senate. They have prepared a slate of senators friendly to the bill and they hope to have them chosen, instead of those in line for selection through custom, because they opposed passage of the measure.

Both sides predict a fight on the senate floor over selection of conferees, but supporters of the Alabama senator's bill feel confident they can draft sufficient votes to get friendly conferees.

PRAYER:—We rejoice, O God, to know that like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.

SUMMER LIGHT OPERA.

The assurance that Atlanta will have a permanent season of light opera each summer, made by a group of Atlanta citizens called by Howard Candler, through the quick pledging of more than $50,000 as a guarantee fund, is not only another evidence of the city's ability to do things with its proverbial spirit, but further accentuates Atlanta's position as the cultural center of the south.

The Municipal Opera association of Atlanta, in process of organization, will fill a place in cultural entertainment as distinctive in its class as the Musical Festival association in providing the one-week season of Metropolitan grand opera each season. The standard will be so maintained that visitors will come to Atlanta from all sections of the south to attend light opera at a season of the year when there are fewer outstanding attractions.

With Atlanta's exceptional summer climate, foothill courses, magnificent hotels, golf courses, theaters and great banking and merchandising facilities, this summer light opera season will go a long way toward making the city a mecca for summer as well as winter tourists.

Mr. Candler, who has led in this enterprise with such commendable vigor, deserves hearty cooperation, and Atlanta is to be congratulated that through his direction such a contribution is to be made to her yearly entertainment program.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.

The high tribute Secretary of War Weeks paid to General David C. Shanks, on his retirement after more than forty years of active and distinguished service in the regular army of his country, was far more than a perfunctory gesture, and the people of Georgia deeply appreciate it.

No man in private, official or military life has endeared himself to the people of Atlanta more than has General Shanks during his residence here in command of the Fourth Corps area.

He has had a progressive, uplifting—always constructive—voice in civic affairs, and it is with the keenest satisfaction that his friends learn that he will remain a permanent citizen of this community.

Secretary Weeks referred to the several periods of his service that were outstanding, and stressed his wonderful executive force as demonstrated in his command of the port of embarkation at Hoboken during the months that millions of soldiers were transported from that port. He subsequently was placed in charge of a combat division at his own request, seeking active infantry service along the battle line.

General Shanks deserves the many good things the secretary said of him.

THE GEORGIA OYSTER.

The oyster packing industry throughout the country has been tremendously depressed by recent short-lived epidemics of typhoid in New York and Chicago, alleged to have been caused from eating germ-infested oysters.

Due to the unusual publicity given to the death of a young millionaire orphan in Chicago, who was alleged to have either died naturally from typhoid contracted from oysters, or unnaturally through the over-zealous "nursing" of his benefactor, the oyster has been barred from the usual sea food menus of thousands of people who are fond of them.

It would be just as sensible to bar milk from the table, or even water, because typhoid fever has been contracted time and again from both.

Every precaution should be taken by law to keep oysters, in their natural beds, and subsequently, from contamination. Under no condition should sewage, or garbage, or anything of an unsanitary nature, come in contact with oysters or any other food.

But the course of wisdom is to remove the contamination, and not bar the oysters as a healthful, digestible and palatable food delicacy.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are invested in oyster packing. It is a big and growing industry of the Georgia coast, and the Georgia oyster, grown in the sea-island waters, is as free from contamination as the spring water from the rocks in north Georgia.

The Georgia oyster packers will meet in Savannah today to cope with this and other problems, and the country ought to be educated to the ridiculousness of placing a ban on oysters because one or two of a million sources of supply in America have become infested with typhoid germs.

CARROLL'S LEAD AGAIN.

On this page is a communication from C. B. Ingram, county agent of Carroll, telling of the remarkable progress that county is making in poultry husbandry.

More than 250,000 dozens of table eggs were shipped by express out of that county in 1924, and approximately 200,000 dozen were marketed by trucks in Atlanta, and other nearer markets.

Most of the express shipments went to the finer hotel trade in Florida in the winter, and in the east in summer, these particular eggs being graded, sterile and shipped entirely fresh.

By reason of a standardized marketing system such eggs have brought and are bringing a premium over the quoted market.

Mr. Ingram makes the statement that there are between 45,000 and 50,000 hens in commercial flocks in the county, and gives the actual experience of one farmer who kept accurate records, accumulating in cash and equipment $994.19 in one year with the investment of 1,000 baby chicks.

Poultry and egg culture in Carroll is merely one of the diversified interests, that county being a banner county in cotton production, having ginned around 34,000 bales in 1924.

The point is, what Carroll can do any county, relatively, can do. That there can be no over-production in poultry products is illustrated by the fact that in refrigeration storage today and every day are thousands of cases of Chinese eggs. Thousands of dozens of Tennessee eggs are sold in Atlanta every week.

In 1925 there must be a more general balancing of production, and along with the development of other cash commodity production earnest attention should be given to the opportunities in poultry products.

KANSAS FOLLOWS GEORGIA

The following press dispatch from Topeka puts Kansas along with Georgia and other states that are speaking out against the tendency toward centralized government:

"Kansas is on record as against the proposed child-labor amendment to the federal constitution. The lower house of the legislature voted, 101 to 21, against extending more power to congress. A resolution to submit the child-labor amendment to a vote of the people was indefinitely postponed."

The fate of the proposed child-labor amendment is scaled. The Constitution predicted its defeat several weeks ago. Georgia was the first state to act adversely on the amendment. Since that time the state has been labelled by many of the amendment propagandists as a child labor condition. The wholly incorrect statements and studied unfairness of these attacks in Georgia have reacted. The people generally now know the truth.

The labor of children should be rigidly, and, as far as practicable, uniformly controlled, but the country will simply not stand for the effort to federalize the control of young men and women up to 18 years of age, even extending to their education, as would be made possible under the proposed amendment.

While the amendment is practically dead, the news from Topeka accentuates a growing disposition among the states to get back to the old democratic doctrine of states' rights. The tendency, encouraged by federal policies recently, to make a bureaucracy of this government is being checked. It is to Georgia's credit that she led in the checking process.

And don't even swallow the pearls in raw oysters, though boiled pearls might upset your digestion.

At last home protests against being made a mere parking place and feed station.

"And the floods descended," but this part of the country keeps a-going in spite of rain, wind and fire.

A good, first-class, spectacular eclipse is all we ask of the rain-cooled weather man.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

Keep the Road!

I. Time and Tide—

Keep the road right hearty!

Fight the fire, fear not the snow—

Keep the road right hearty!

One with the runner in the race,

Straight to the goal, with the grit and grace;

Taint's so far to the restin' place.

Keep the road right hearty!

Thunder rolls, and the waves run high,

Keep the road right hearty!

Trouble and strife as you fare along;

Sharp red thorns where the roses grow;

Dark road leads to the morning song—

Keep the road right hearty!

Poetry and Oysters.

"It was all of 40 years ago," says the Philadelphia Record, "that Eugene Field wrote the poem in which the sign of oysters 'taint's so far to the west' in cans, and at that time Chicago was included in the 'out west,' and The Record adds:

"But even Field, with all his fancy and imagination, could never have visualized the present situation in the lake metropolis and the state of Illinois. The typhoid scare there has induced Director Rawlings of the Illinois department of health, to issue an order, which went into effect last Thursday, forbidding the eating of raw oysters in that state."

Amount of good the order may accomplish is very much open to question; and there will be many, too, who will question the authority of any health officer anywhere to issue so positive an order."

Slumber Song.

Shadows now are softly falling,

Sandman, now, will soon be calling,

Close your little eyelids, dear,

Don't be afraid, for mother's near;

Drift away in slumber deep—

Sleep, Little One, sleep!

Lay your head on mother's breast—

Tired feet rest on her feet;

Old Owl's hoot is "goodnight,"

Mr. Owl is now in sight—

Sleep, Little One, dreamland's keep,

Sleep, Little One, sleep!

The Tifon Gazette's comment on "the long rain" was brief and to the point, as follows: "This is the kind of weather that makes every traveler a pained enthusiast."

Says State Should Pay for Back Pensions

Praises Mrs. Jackson's Work in "The Light of the World"

Editor Constitution: I feel sure that thousands who have not the pleasure of knowing Mrs. Jackson, would be excited through her wonderful production, "The Light of the World," which is highlighted at the token of approval in the beautiful gift recently presented her.

I attended the second presentation on New Year's Day, and hours before the doors opened for admission a great multitude of people were gathered in the large auditorium, and when the manager finally decided to open the doors, well in advance of the published hour, the audience was so large that the conditions were crowded, and quiet forward and, within a short time, that immense hall was filled—every seat taken and many standing. Extra seats were placed in the very front of the auditorium, and all available space was occupied.

The curtain arose and again "The Light of the World" was presented to this great multitude. It is the third presentation that I have witnessed, and having carefully read the story of "The Light of the World" by Mrs. Jackson, I shall look forward to again witnessing her great work with even keener interest and greater appreciation. I would gladly place a wreath of laurel on her brow.

Germany's New Monarchist Cabinet

BY HENRY T. ALLEN,

Who Commanded the American Army on the Rhine.

(Dr. Luther, in his first speech in the reichstag, upheld the Daves plan and the constitution of the German republic. General Allen, who doubtless knows much about German conditions as any American, interprets the situation which brought him to the head of the German state.)

How did it happen that a cabinet dominated by monarchists has come into power in Germany and what is the outlook for the future?

It is unfortunate that the long cabinet crisis should have occurred at a time when the Daves plan is being installed and when the interallied board of military control was making its report. The announcement by the council of ambassadors that the Cologne bridgehead would not be evacuated on the presumptive date of January 10, due to the alleged non-fulfillment of Germany of the disarmament clauses of the Versailles treaty, caused a political sensation that was utilized by the right as a political weapon, though inwardly they desired to have the British remain on the Rhine until the French and Belgian troops had left the Ruhr. Many Germans believe, however, that England will not surrender that exceptional trade base, Cologne, as long as there are any chances of seeing it go into the hands of any of the other war partners.

The expiration of the terms of the Franco-German trade arrangement established by the treaty also had effect in delaying the organization of the new government. The trade of Alsace-Lorraine with Germany is about three times as great as with France. The nationalists were not averse to thwarting a new commercial agreement with France, preferring a reversion to the pre-war tariff.

The crisis and its solution will not facilitate the removal of the difficulties that are yet to be met in the aftermath of war. Fortunately the economic restoration of Germany will be the dominating motive of the new government.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Peasants On the March.

It seems certain now that the quarrel between Trotsky and the other leaders in Russia concerned the future treatment of the peasants. Hitherto they had been rather silent spectators in the bizarre spectacle, but ever since Kerensky promised them the land and Lenin gave it to them there has been a change in the lives of these millions, who were serfs only sixty years ago. They begin to feel that the whole state organization must collapse with their cooperation. In other words, the peasants are becoming class-conscious, as the comrades would put it, and are no longer the passive subjects of the state.

Ryland Capps and Miss Lucy Bae were not married, as announced by one of the papers, but they were married last week. They made good for the papers, however, by taking out a license New Year's afternoon and having Sophie W. L. Crawford say the ceremony.

Holland Leads.

Recognizing that it would be wise to provide regular and legally defined ways in which the exiles could be repatriated, the Dutch government has made plans for another step towards granting larger measures of home rule to the colonies in the Indies. A colonial council, the volksraad, is to function henceforth on a representative basis, and the Dutch parliament, as there is keen criticism of the proposal. On the one hand there are those who demand a still more radical autonomy for the Indies; on the other hand there are more cautious men who foresee difficulties and conflicts. The fears of the Dutch government are chiefly inspired by the fact that the proposed reform will give to the volksraad a native majority, which is sure to be supported by revolutionary forces. The Dutch government is trying an experiment of the gravest import, and so important is the proposal that British colonial experts are studying its inception. Appalled Bolsheviks.

The bolsheviks have brought a man to trial who has almost been forgotten by the world: He is one of the conspirators that brought about the assassination of Czar Alexander II, in 1881. His associates were executed by hanging, but he was spared because he acted as informer on his comrades. What was a cause for clemency to the czarist police, however, has become a cause of further prosecution for the cheka, or soviet police. The man has been taken from prison, where he spent the last ten years, and must face Krylenko, the relentless prosecutor of the soviets, for betraying his comrades. When he appeared in the court room, where he spent the last ten years, and must face Krylenko, the relentless prosecutor of the soviets, for betraying his comrades. ## Amateurs Urged To Help Experts in Observing Total Eclipse Phenomena

Scientists Hope To Secure Important Data Bearing on Ether Theory Next Saturday.

Williams Bay, Wis., January 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Some layman or amateur may render valuable aid to science in observing the total eclipse of the sun January 24, according to Professor Edwin H. Frost, director of Yerkes observatory here for the University of Chicago.

"It may happen that the only clear place for observing this eclipse here," said Frost, "will be some little town in Michigan. It may be just a small camera, in the hands of an amateur, will catch the most successful picture. Of course, instruments of large focus are desirable.

"Photographers, amateur and professional, are urged to photograph the corona (the luminous envelope of the sun). If the camera is focused so that it gives a sharp picture of the moon or of objects as distant as 1,000 feet, it will suffice and both short and long exposures should be made. By 'long' we mean those of 30 to 40 seconds; by 'short' those of one to five seconds.

"It is recommended that experts with the brush should have their colors ready at this eclipse and make a record of their impression of the corona. 'Persons skillful in drawing should make a sketch, showing the size and shape of the corona. To save time, a circle about two inches in diameter should be drawn in advance, to represent the outline of the black moon exactly covering the sun and then the sketch should be made to scale.

"Persons living along the edge of the shadow can do a useful scientific service by noting whether any part of the sun is left uncovered at the moment of greatest darkness, if so, they are slightly off the line. It is a real triumph of astronomical and mathematical skill that the track of a solar eclipse can be predicted, but improvements could be made if the exact line could be corrected by observation to less than a mile.

"Such reports could be made to local papers, which in turn could send them to The Scientific American in New York, which is to collect such information for the American Astronomical society."

GEORGIA BANK LISTED AMONG 100 LARGEST

The Constitution Bureau, 112 West 42nd Street.

New York, January 21.—A Georgia bank, the Citizens and Southern of Atlanta and Savannah, is listed among the first 100 of the country, described as largest by "The American Banker," in reporting the last year's increase in deposits.

While the Citizens and Southern is eighty-sixth on the list, it is grouped with some of the foremost banking institutions of the country and its classification as one of the 100 largest is significant. The extent to which deposits of large banks have increased in the last year as a result of the country-wide prosperity which the nation is enjoying is revealed in "The American Banker's" table as $2,468,296,904.

The total deposits of the 100 largest banks amounted to $15,149,380,913 on December 31, 1924. This figure is about one-third of the total bank deposits of the entire country.

The Seaboard has just opened its new line to Palm Beach through the heart of Florida. Mr. Wardfield, president of the road, is taking a party of friends over the road incident to inauguration of the new schedule.

$25,000 INCLUDED FOR EXPERIMENTS TO KILL WEEVILS

Washington, January 22.—(Special.)—An appropriation of $25,000 for experiments in poison gases by army experts to provide a new solution for killing the boll weevil was placed in the army appropriations bill at the instance of Senator Harris, of Georgia.

The effort is to get a poison that will be cheaper than calcium arsenate, with the condition, of course, that the poison evolved will not injure the cotton plant.

Senator Harris secured the inclusion of the appropriation in the bill, after both the budget and the war department had declined to approve it. He expects its approval by the senate.

Funeral services for George S. Jarvis, 72, pioneer Atlanta "old" died Thursday at the residence, 67 Wesley avenue, will be held from the chapel of Atway & Lowndes at 10 o'clock this morning. Interment will be at Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Jarvis had been a resident of Atlanta for the past 40 years, coming here from Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, with his brother, C. F. Jarvis, Sr. He formerly was associated with his brother in the carriage and monument business here and was well known to older Atlanta residents. He retired from active business several years ago.

He is survived by a brother, R. L. Jarvis, of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada; a sister, Mrs. John L. Dyer, of London, Ontario, Canada; two nephews, of Atlanta, C. E. and J. J. Jarvis; a niece, Mrs. Sadie Jarvis Ray, of Atlanta, and several other nephews and nieces in Canada.

MEMMINGER TO SPEAK BEFORE CIVITAN CLUB

Dr. Willard W. Memminger, rector of the All Saints Episcopal church and chaplain of the Civitan club, will be the principal speaker today at 12:30 o'clock at the regular weekly luncheon of the Civitan club, to be held in the Ansley hotel.

This will be the first time in quite a while that the chaplain has delivered an address to the members of the organization, and it is stated that he has selected a very interesting subject.

Another feature of the weekly meeting will be community singing, led by Roy Petty and Tom Martin. President Herbert Porter will preside.

TROLLEY DECISION EXPECTED TODAY

A decision on petition of Judge Newt A. Morris for a receiver for the Atlanta Northern railway will be rendered this morning by Judge W. D. Ellis in Fulton superior court. Hearing of the petition, which was filed after the railway company had discontinued car service on the Marietta-Atlanta line, began Monday, lasting through Wednesday.

Judge Morris devoted most of his argument Wednesday to an attack on the method of suspension of service rather than the right of the company to cease operations.

Ben J. Conyers, attorney for the railway company, contended that the law does not contemplate forcing a corporation to continue operation unless it furnishes reasonable remuneration, bringing out the fact also that the public has no right in the property of the corporation but only a right in its use.

The items referred to by the speaker were called "scandalous," but he admitted that one of them—that in which Lady Eleanor was reported to have smoked a cigarette on a college campus—"whatever that may be"—was true. The other, in which it was related that his lordship, before delivering an address one night in a nonconformist chapel, was taken down into the cellar by a deacon and emphatically denied.

"This is the first occasion on which I've had an opportunity of dealing with this matter," he said.

WAR DEPARTMENT BILL CARRIES $332,352,671

Washington, January 22.—The war department appropriation bill carrying $332,352,671, or $172,921, more than approved by the house, was reported to the senate today from its appropriations committee.

Among the increases ordered by the committee was one for $25,000 to be used by the chemical warfare service in experiments in exterminating the cotton boll weevil.

The committee added $100,000 for additional pay to enlisted men who have had long service and $110,000 for coast artillery fire control stations and general communication.

Other increases included $12,000 each for the Hawaiian Islands and the Panama Canal for electric light and power plants; $35,440 for the rifle practice band, and $10,000 for the reserve officers' training corps.

Prayer Services Will Usher in Seminary Drive

Special prayer and devotional services among Presbyterian women of Atlanta have been arranged, along with other plans of the $250,000 campaign, to bring Columbia Theological seminary to Atlanta from Columbia, S. C., according to announcement made Thursday by Mrs. W. M. Everett, chairman of the women's committee.

The program, as outlined by Mrs. Everett, calls for a series of meetings to be held in homes of representative members of the different Presbyterian churches of the city practically every day from now until the close of the campaign which will last from February 9 to February 17, inclusive. These meetings will be devoted to prayer services and will be one of the spiritual features of the great movement. In addition to prayer meetings, all the ladies' auxiliaries and young people's societies will prepare a special program, at which some of the most prominent women of Atlanta will speak in the interest of this project.

EAST POINT MEETS TO ORGANIZE CHEST

East Point, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—A committee of East Point women, Mrs. H. B. Stacy, chairman, will go to Atlanta Friday and confer with officials of the Community Chest there, and report Friday night at a meeting to be held here in the Christian church, when a Community Chest campaign for East Point will be launched.

The success of this plan appears to have worked so successfully in other places, it has been decided to pool all the charities here into a chest. All citizens are invited to be present at the meeting Friday night.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR DR. LAMBRIGHT

Funeral services for Dr. W. E. Lambricht, 49, retired dentist and well-known Atlanta real estate man, who died suddenly Tuesday at Miami, Fla., will be held from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. M. Ashby Jones will officiate. Interment will be at West View cemetery.

Dr. Lambricht was in Florida negotiating for construction of a large and modern apartment there when stricken. He was owner of the Hamilton, Fairview, St. Regis and El Pavlo apartments here at the time of his death.

WOODLOCK CONSIDERED FOR COMMERCE BOARD

Washington, January 22.—Thomas F. Woodlock, a New York financial writer, is in the forefront of those being considered by President Coolidge for appointment to the interstate commerce commission in succession to Mark W. Potter, also of New York, who soon will retire.

The president has been presented with a number of recommendations for the place from the southern states, and it is said that to avoid difficulties resulting from the selection of one southern man from the long list of candidates he may decide on Mr. Woodlock.

New York, January 22.—Thomas F. Woodlock, who is being considered as a successor to Mark W. Potter as an interstate commerce commissioner, is known here as an authority on railroad affairs. He contributes to The Sun.

Mr. Woodlock is a director of the Pere Marquette and St. Louis & San Francisco railroads, and is a former secretary of the American International corporation.

He now is in Atlantic City.

THREE ARE INJURED AS PLANE CRASHES

Harlan, Ky., January 22.—James Williams, of Oliver Springs, Tenn., and Benjamin Bowers and Alvin Skidmore, both of Knoxville, were injured this afternoon when an airplane in which they were passengers fell here.

CASHIER IS ACCUSED IN BIG EMBEZZLEMENT

Kansas City, January 22.—Fred A. Day, cashier of the Methodist book concern here, was charged with embezzlement of $38,023.28 in a information filed today in criminal court. Officials of the book concern said the alleged embezzlement had extended over more than a year.

U. S. Press Items 'Scandalous' Asserts Earl of Birkenhead

ADMITS, HOWEVER, DAUGHTER DID SMOKE

London, January 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Baldwin and the Earl of Birkenhead, secretary for India, broke bread today with the native newspapermen of London in Fleet street and, after both had sung the glories of the British press and the nobility of its reporters, Lord Birkenhead proceeded to comment, somewhat caustically, upon the ways of American journalism. Some of the stories printed about him and his daughter, Lady Eleanor, while they toured the United States in 1923, evidently had impressed his lordship quite unfavorably.

The items referred to by the speaker were called "scandalous," but he admitted that one of them—that in which Lady Eleanor was reported to have smoked a cigarette on a college campus—"whatever that may be"—was true. The other, in which it was related that his lordship, before delivering an address one night in a nonconformist chapel, was taken down into the cellar by a deacon and emphatically denied.

"This is the first occasion on which I've had an opportunity of dealing with this matter," he said.

DR. WALKER CHOSEN AS HEAD OF COLLEGE

Jackson, Miss., January 22.—Dr. B. M. Walker, vice president of the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical college, near Starkville, today was elected president of the institution to succeed Dr. C. C. Hull, whose resignation to become effective at the end of the present school term in June was accepted earlier in the day by the general board of university and college trustees meeting here.

"I'd like to make clear that it was true my daughter did smoke a cigarette, but I wasn't offered any refreshment by the deacon. In a phrase which has been used by the present king, I'd say, even in the presence of representatives of British journalism: 'You've much to learn from the press of the United States of America.'"

What seemed to irritate his lordship most was that these "scandalous sentences," which the American reporters wrote about him, were called all over the English-speaking world.

Although the present majority assures the new cabinet a parliamentary basis of comfortable proportions, the outcome of today's balloting reveals the doubtful nature of its standing in the Reichstag, in that it is entirely at the mercy of the clerical party.

Today's vote, which called for approval in place of the customary confidence, came at the close of a heated debate, in which the government was warned by all the parties that its tenure of office depended upon its accomplishments. None of the opposing speakers were able to pick a flaw in Dr. Luther's program, the central point of the attack being its politically multi-colored composition and the presence in the cabinet of the half a dozen avowed monarchists.

That the Luther government escaped overthrow at the very outset of its career was due solely to the clericalists' disinclination to take the responsibility for another crisis. This also was the motive which finally prompted the democrats to cast blank ballots.

LUTHER'S CABINET GIVEN APPROVAL

Berlin, January 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Hans Luther's nonpartisan cabinet, which has been the target of a heavy barrage in the Reichstag during the past three days, was accorded probational approval tonight by a vote of 246 to 160.

Although the present majority assures the new cabinet a parliamentary basis of comfortable proportions, the outcome of today's balloting reveals the doubtful nature of its standing in the Reichstag, in that it is entirely at the mercy of the clerical party.

JUDICIAL RECEPTION GIVEN BY PRESIDENT

Washington, January 22.—One of the rare occasions when members of the supreme court mingle socially with the general run of senators, congressmen, officials and society satelites occurred Thursday night when President and Mrs. Coolidge gave their annual judicial reception at the white house. About 1,500 guests attended.

This reception and the judicial dinner next week are the two chief social events in which the supreme court justices participate.

SEVERE COLD CAUSES CLOSING OF OFFICE

Fairbanks, Alaska, January 22.—Intense cold, which started Saturday, caused the United States post office here to close yesterday. Heating facilities were inadequate to keep the fingers of clerks warm enough to distribute mail. Thermometers registered 45 below zero, breaking all records in this district.

SNOOK DISCUSSES ATLANTA FEDERAL PRISON PROBLEMS

Washington, January 22.—John Snook, new warden of the Atlanta federal prison, conferred today with department of justice officials preparatory to assuming the duties of his office within a few days.

The conferences, it was stated, had to do largely with prison problems obtaining at Atlanta and were in no way related to questions of departmental policy in dealing with the situation that resulted in the indictment in Atlanta of former Warden Sarlain and former Deputy Warden Fletcher.

TREASURY-POSTAL BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, January 22.—President Coolidge today signed the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill carrying $760,000,000, the largest amount ever provided during peace time in a single piece of legislation.

FLOOD DAMAGE HEAVY AT NEWTON

Camilla, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—Newton, the county seat of Baker county, continues completely inundated today and isolated from the outside world, as the waters of Flint river continued to rise. Up to last night the river had risen to 40 feet, an unheard-of record in this section.

Notchaway creek runs around Newton on the north, while Flint river runs to the south, and as the river and the creek have both broken out of their former high-water records but 10 or 15 feet, the houses and business places of Newton are abandoned. Water in the storehouses is up to the ceiling today.

Merchants Lost All.
Some of the merchants lost practically everything they had. People who waited too long to move out saw their fine furniture swallowed by the flood. The hotel, which is a two-story house where the water never goes, has a boat tied to its upper story. For a day or so, many of the people stayed in the courthouse, but so rapid was the rise of the water that they were forced to leave the town, and so swift was the current through the center of town near the courthouse that several of the canoes were overturned, but fortunately not a person is reported drowned.

Both counties, Mitchell and Baker, worked hard to save the new steel bridge recently erected jointly by both counties, but so fast was the rush of the water that the workers had to abandon their efforts, and the water has risen to the upper part on the flooring of the bridge so that it is now covered. Grave fears are entertained that the bridge will be a complete loss.

Warehouse Gone.
Lee Halt was the owner of a warehouse about 50 feet wide and 70 feet long, filled with peanuts and cotton seed, and so swift was the current around the corners of it that the foundation was washed away, and the walls fell down, washing that entire lot down the river. Cows, hogs and chickens are everywhere. One big porker was riding a bale of cotton around the city limits yesterday apparently contented.

Refugees are being taken care of by neighbors and friends wherever it is possible to locate them. Many are in homes opened to them by people in Camilla, Albany, Milford and surrounding towns. Their plight is truly pathetic, as most of them have only the clothing on their backs.

Reports coming in assert that Roy Salter's store has caved in and that Lee Halt's store is damaged and many residences are floating, one being against the other. Food supplies are being sent to the people remaining near the scene by Albany, and those on this side are being taken care of by Camilla. There is no food shortage. The river at Newton rose a foot and a half last night and is reported to be still rising today.

TOURISTS STRANDED IN AMERICA.
Americus, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—With the Seminole Limited and Dixie Flyer marooned in Americus Monday night and an approaching blizzard 500 tourists spent an enforced layover of 18 hours in Americus. While there they were guests of the Kiwanis club and the Elks lodge, and also being received as privileged visitors upon the links of the Americus Golf club. The delay here was caused by the inability of the "Great Georgia" to operate their fast tourist trains south of Americus, due to high water between this point and Albany.

Many of the tourists had frequently visited Florida resort cities, but few of them had ever before stopped in Georgia. All, it is stated, were profoundly impressed with the climatic and agricultural advantages of this section, and a number of these expressed themselves as resolved to stop over in this state upon their return journey.

Practically all the main highways leading out of Americus are again open to travel, after an interruption of several days due to flood conditions. The highway south of here, however, remains closed due to serious washout in the vicinity of Kinchafosse creek bridge, near the Terrell country line, and this cannot be repaired, it is stated, until after the waters have subsided.

On the Americus-Vienna road, all travel is being detoured because of a washout on the main highway, but travel between these points is uninterrupted as far as Flint river, the bridge over which is closed because of high water, although still intact early tonight. The Albany highway is open as far south as Leesburg, and a large force is busy now mending a break which prevents travel beyond that point, and all of the other state routes out of here are passable, though detours are being utilized upon several of these.

SPALDING COUNTY LOSES MANY BRIDGES.

Griffin, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—Spalding county suffered loss of $100,000 or over in bridges being washed away as a result of the recent rains, according to statements made by county officials after investigations. Wooden bridges on the Griffin-Newnan road, the Hefflin bridge on the Spalding-Butts county line, and one across the Towalaga river are all gone. Smaller bridges over creeks in various parts of the county were also damaged.

Farmers will suffer heavy losses from the condition in which their farms have been left.

COLLINS SAFE AT ALBANY.
Albany, Ga., January 22.—Ernest Collins, 36, missing since Wednesday morning when he went hunting, was located this morning when he phoned his parents from the country, that he had been marooned by high water but was safe.

FLONZALEY FOUR TO GIVE CONCERT
HERE SATURDAY

The Atlanta Music club Saturday will present the Flonzaley quartet for its annual concert. The quartet, club officials say, is regarded an outstanding event of the musical season, interest enhancing from year to year.

The concert of Saturday afternoon will be given at the Woman's club auditorium, and as there will be no reserved seats, New York's example of early arrival will be followed. The auditorium is ideally adapted for chamber music and every seat is a good seat. But the point is to be on time to get a seat. Tickets will be on sale Friday and Saturday at the Cable Piano company. Price $2.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirin, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirin and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspirin is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's crouping up at night.—(adv.)

building record for the year, the greatest in the south, the bank clearings, likewise greatest in the south, the active prosperous business institutions and the numerous splendid service organizations which flourish in this city and show that the only possible criticism which can be made of the city is that she is growing so fast and so fast that Peachtree street is no longer a fair index of the city's condition.

Concluding Mayor Sims said that, with all the statistics and all the advantages which could be cited regarding Atlanta, it was none of these things, but the people, the live, progressive citizens, who made the city grow.

Organizations Affiliated.
President Myers reported that during the past year three additional group organizations had affiliated with the Merchants' association. These were the Retail Clothiers, with 25 members, and the Fire Insurance Agents' association, with 40 members.

W. R. C. Smith, newly-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered a short talk in exceptionally happy vein, complimenting the association upon its growth and its activity and suggesting that the chamber of commerce should get no admission from the Chamber of Commerce itself to become an affiliated organization.

An unusual feature of the program came when President Myers called on W. W. Orr to pay a tribute to Colonel Frederic J. Paxton, first president of the association, recently chosen as "Atlanta's First Citizen," and awarded the first of a number of honorary citizenships of Atlanta during the year.

Orr spoke with eloquence of the career of Colonel Paxton since he came to Atlanta as a young man in 1887 and he traced his career as one of the greatest individual factors in the growth of the city.

Colonel Paxton briefly responded and thanked his fellow members of the association for the kind words which prompted the tribute voiced by Mr. Orr.

Ivan Allen then presented Robert Allen, attorney for the association, with a gold fountain pen marking the organization's appreciation of his legal services, which were given, said Allen, without remuneration. Mr. Allen being a member of the association, Mr. Allen in a few well chosen words thanked the body for its recognition.

Mr. Hastings, chief speaker of the evening, urged merchants to seek to expand their business in the lines already covered, rather than by stepping out into new fields, and cited many stories in which business men had overlooked the treasure at their own doors before they started to roam the world in search of fortune. He stated that the general public, it had been found, would travel just about as far as they could go in one hour in order to purchase the necessities of life. He recalled the old days when an ox team made about three miles an hour. Then, he said, the trading centers were about six miles apart. Today, he pointed out, the automobile and modern methods of transportation have made it easy to travel 15 miles in an hour, and as a result the trading centers today are 25 or 30 miles apart.

The speaker likened the development in modern retailing to the growth of a boy, saying that business had passed through the childhood stage, through the "smart Alecky" stage of adolescence, and was now entering into manhood. The development of the next few years, he declared, would determine whether retailing should retrograde to a happy-go-lucky, hit-or-miss game or whether it should become a scientific profession.

Eulogize Myers.
At this point in the program, Samuel Rothberg, a member of the executive committee arose to deliver an eulogy to Mr. Myers, the retiring president, at the conclusion of which he presented Mr. Myers with a gold watch as a gift from the association in appreciation of his splendid administration.

Colonel Paxton, after paying a tribute to C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary of the association, announced the report of the nominating committee for officers for 1925, which was adopted without dissent. The new president, Mr. Stokes, spoke briefly, thanking members for the honor paid him, and while he said he knew he could not perform services equal to those of his predecessors in the office, he wanted them at the end of his term, at any rate, to classify him as "sincere."

Colonel Paxton then moved that W. W. Orr be appointed a committee of one to draw up suitable resolutions of appreciation for Mr. Myers' services, to be presented to him, to be spread upon the minutes and copies to be furnished the newspapers. This was carried unanimously.

A resolution providing that all matters referred to the association should be automatically left to the proper committee to definitely decide and handle also was carried. This, it was said, tended to advance the efficiency of the organization and simplify the routine work.

Purse Given Hohenstein.
A purse of gold was presented to

NEW AUTOMOBILE CAR ARRIVES IN ATLANTA

The first automobile car, built especially for the transportation of automobiles, being made of the very latest and most complete design arrived in Atlanta Thursday morning over the Seaboard Air Line railway tracks.

This car was built by the Piedmont & Northern shops at Greenville, S. C. The first loading consisted of a car of cotton factory products loaded by the Pacific mills, of Lyman, S. C., solid for Chicago. On arrival in this city the car was loaded with a return load of automobiles.

The Buick Automobile company will be the first to have the car, because of the fact that George Connor, director of traffic of that company, displayed a great deal of interest in its manufacture. This is said to be the first of a number of specially-built automobile cars to be sent out by the Piedmont & Northern shops.

The car will be exhibited to many dealers throughout the routing, which includes Detroit, Chicago and Flint, Mich.

Secretary Hohenstein in appreciation of his services to the association, expressed his thanks for the remembrance, mentioned a number of persons and organizations who had contributed to the success of the evening's entertainment and paid a tribute to the work of his assistants in the executive offices.

Entertainment during the dinner was furnished by an orchestra and by the Georgia Railway and Power company quartette. Solon Druken sang a number of delightful tenor solos and was called back for encore several times.

The new officers of the association include some of the best known and most prominent business men in the city.

Referendum Plan Proposed To Decide Future Control Of Atlanta School System

Councilman Saunders Will Introduce Ordinance; Progress on City-County Merger Proposal.

A referendum to decide whether the Atlanta school department be returned to control of city council, or divorced completely from city government, and operated on a fund raised by a special tax, to be levied by the board of education, will be asked in an ordinance to be introduced at the next meeting of council by Councilman W. E. Saunders, it was stated Thursday.

Announcement was made following statements of Mayor Walter A. Sims that the proposed merger of city and county school systems is illegal because a recent constitutional amendment prohibits such consolidations in cities located in more than one county. Mr. Saunders will ask that the referendum be held as soon as possible, and if council passes the resolution, it probably will be set for late in March or early in February. Such a referendum was authorized by action of the legislature last year, but it must be held before the 1925 meeting of the general assembly.

Despite statements that the merger would be illegal, plans for formation of the proposed constitutional amendment are being carried forward, and reports of subcommittees of the general committee will be completed next week, it was stated Thursday. The legal committee is investigating legality of establishing the district without a constitutional amendment, but officials backing the merger have indicated that if a charter amendment is necessary, the legislature will be asked to take that action.

John T. Hancock, president of the Atlanta board of education and chairman of the legal committee, stated that Attorney General George M. Naylor has ruled that a constitutional amendment is unnecessary, and that the new district could be established by action of the legislature.

Tentative plans of the merger committee call for a referendum to be held in February. If it is decided that a constitutional amendment is unnecessary, and the vote shows the people in favor of the merger, the legislature will be asked to act. In the event that it is found illegal, the legislature will be requested to vote a constitutional amendment, which would have to be ratified by a referendum of all voters of the state.

INEGRO BOY BURNED; HOME IS IMPERILED

Fire threatened the home of J. W. Cochran, 759 Peachtree street, early Thursday when the clothing of a 3-year-old negro boy became ignited in the servant's room and he leaped into bed in an effort to smother the flames. Freddie Kerse, the boy, was rushed on a Grady hospital, where physicians declare he has slight chance of recovery.

The flames were extinguished by the fire department before they had spread beyond the servant's quarters.

Pine-Tar and Honey Still Best for Chest Colds and Coughs

Our mothers and grandmothers would never be without pine tar syrup in the house for coughs, chest colds, etc. This was many years ago, but modern medicine has never been able to improve on this time-tested remedy. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion that are the actual cause of the cough. At the same time pine-tar and honey soothe and heal all irritation and soreness.

The kind that has been used with never-failing success in thousands of families for years is that known as Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. This is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. It contains absolutely no opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs, so can be given to young children—fine for spasmodic croup, tetanus, whooping cough, etc. If you want the best medicine that often stops the severest cough overnight, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It costs only 50c at any good drugstore.

BIBLE STUDENTS HEAR PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Addresses by R. L. Robie and J. Martin, of New York, speaking respectively on "The Divine Plan of God and the Armageddon" and "Desirable Government Under the Supervision of God" today will feature the second-day morning session of the convention of the Southern Division of the International Bible Students' association, which is being held at the association headquarters, 44 1-2 Hunter street.

The session will convene at 9 o'clock and will be opened with prayer by C. H. Goodwin and testimonies of delegates.

The opening session was held at headquarters Thursday morning with attendance of more than 500 delegates.

The afternoon session will convene at 2 o'clock, with a prayer and testimony, led by C. R. Pitzer. The featured addresses of this session will be delivered by Ralph Green, of Mobile, Ala.; V. C. Rice and T. H. Thornton, of New York, concerning "What Cried Is the Truth," "The Bible Infallible," and "Modernism and Fundamentalism," respectively. General business will also be discussed at the morning and afternoon sessions.

C. R. Thomas, assistant director of activities of the association, delivered the address of welcome which was responded to by V. C. Rice, of New York, chairman of the convention.

The principal address was delivered by T. H. Thornton, of New York, speaking on the growing interest in Bible study.

Dr. R. L. Robie, of New York, spoke on "Universal Peace Through the Kingdom of God," his address being followed by a discourse by R. J. Martin, of New York, "The World's Progress." In naming the periods he stated that the flood was the end of the first, the present day was the second, and the coming of Christ was the third and last.

The scientific world is assembling its forces for observation along astronomical points along the path of darkness, but in addition this eclipse will come under observation of an army of radio fans. Cloudy weather can spoil the chances for the man with telescope, but if a radio set adorns your living room, you may observe the eclipse with your ears. Radio is going to play a leading role in this celestial performance. Not that any messages are looked for from that solar parent of ours, which has a temperature of 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit, but it is possible some change may be noted in the magnetic and electric conditions of the earth. Static may be affected by the eclipse in some marked way.

Amateurs can make their own photographs of eclipses as well as of those more elusive details of the sun and of the moon.

The first actual photograph of a total eclipse was made on July 26, 1851, at Koenigsberg, and was a daguerotype. Since that time there have been less than 40 possible minutes for the observation and photography of total eclipses of the sun in North America and Europe; and all the rest of the world, Asia, Africa, and the oceans, far away from observatories and equipment, have added but one hour and 50 minutes to the time.

The Saros Period.

Every 18 years the sun and moon are in position to give us the same kind of an eclipse. This is called the saros period, or cycle, and would bring about total eclipses every 18 years for any given locality were it not for the fact that each eclipse is visible about 120 degrees of longitude to the west of the preceding saros return. We ought then to have the same eclipse come back after three such westward leaps or in 54 years, but this does not happen, for the eclipse zone is at the same time moving northward or southward by several hundred miles. The present eclipse has moved to the west since its last saros, in 1807, when it was central over the deserts of Turkestan; while 18 years before that it was in the mid-Pacific and a little more to the south.

For the coming eclipse of 1925 the sun will rise at the headwaters of the Mississippi river in Minnesota, not far from Lake of the Woods, with the moon already covering most of its surface; just entering the total phase means 7 o'clock in the morning, next Saturday. The maximum eclipse—for Atlanta—will come a few minutes before 8 o'clock and, about 9 o'clock, the sun will have freed itself of the moon and will be casting its full rays on the earth, according to scientific advance data.

AMERICA WILL SEE ECLIPSE SATURDAY

The eclipse is going to be unusually interesting from a scientific standpoint because it will give scientists in the region where it is total a chance to study the corona. This peculiar halo of light, which extends some distance from the sun only during a total eclipse, appears differently every time there is a total eclipse and scientists wish to study it this time with a view to explaining it, if possible.

The last partial eclipse of the sun in this part of the world was in 1900, when the centre was over Atlanta and Charlotte, N. C. The maximum part of the eclipse Saturday will last only for a few seconds, but in some parts of New England it will last long enough for scientists to take about two minutes in looking at it.

Best Way to See Eclipse.

The best way to observe the beauty of the coming solar eclipse is explained by Professor E. G. Wray, secretary of the astronomical division of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Institute of Arts and Sciences, as follows:

"Detect the beginning of the eclipse by watching the sun through a piece of smoked glass. When the moon starts to cross the sun's face, bandage your eyes with a large black or colored piece of cloth. After the eyes have been in the dark for more than an hour and it is known that the eclipse approaches totality, unbandage your eyes, and again look through the smoked glass. In this way you will see the full beauty of the sight of a lifetime."

The eclipse Saturday is regarded as so important that the American Astronomical association has urged a stop of all ordinary activities during the eclipse, which in many regions will be the first seen in the twentieth century.

The scientific world is assembling its forces for observation along astronomical points along the path of darkness, but in addition this eclipse will come under observation of an army of radio fans. Cloudy weather can spoil the chances for the man with telescope, but if a radio set adorns your living room, you may observe the eclipse with your ears. Radio is going to play a leading role in this celestial performance. Not that any messages are looked for from that solar parent of ours, which has a temperature of 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit, but it is possible some change may be noted in the magnetic and electric conditions of the earth. For the coming eclipse of 1925 the sun will rise at the headwaters of the Mississippi river in Minnesota, not far from Lake of the Woods, with the moon already covering most of its surface; just entering the total phase at about 8 o'clock central time. This total phase of the eclipse will be visible throughout a strip of land varying from 80 to 110 miles in width along a line drawn eastward through Niagara, the Catskills and Danbury, Connecticut.

Mysterious Corona.

At every total eclipse of the sun a mysterious corona or circle of radiance surrounds old Sol during the brief moments that he is completely covered. Although first mentioned by observers at the beginning of the second century, coronas have probably always been a part of this event. And still this brilliant halo remains a puzzle. Does the corona shine because it is burning or is a part of its radiance due simply to a power of reflecting the incandescent gases in the sun? What is it made of, and why is the world probably going to see it at this special eclipse not as a perfectly circular coronet but as an irregular glow of light that reaches out near the solar equator in two long bursts of streamers, one on the right side and one on the left side of the sun? Scientists do not know as yet of what this glow about the sun is composed, or why it changes in form from one eclipse to the next, and astronomers are particularly interested to learn whether it may not rotate.

Out through the corona flash brilliant red hydrogen flames called prominences. These will be studied as well as the gases that compose the various outer envelopes or layers of the sun. Scientists can observe these characteristics of the sun itself on any clear day by means of the spectroheliograph, which photographs the prominences around the sun by limiting the light to a series of narrow slits.

Moon Will Be Studied.

The moon will come in for a considerable amount of scrutiny in order to outline its exact shape against the brilliant background of the solar corona and to measure still more precisely its size.

A good many of these minutes in which eclipses would seem to have been wasted upon the desert air, have been saved to science by long journeys on the part of enterprising astronomers who have transported not only telescopes, photographic apparatus and much more of their equipment as they could carry, but even towed tents into remote corners of the earth for a scant two minutes, it might be of solar observation. Gibraltar, Siam, Japan and West Africa have seen some of these excursions during the past fifty years.

Is it astonishing then, that when such a free for all drama is staged for the benefit of one of the most populous regions of earth, scientists should ask for a cessation of work for the few precious moments during which it will last?

The state rested its case shortly before 12 o'clock, introducing only four witnesses, after which recess was ordered until 2 o'clock, when the afternoon session began.

Assistant Attorney General Aiken was off duty at the time of the shooting. He was seated in his home at 121 Powers street when he heard a woman's scream. Seeing his neighbor rushed into the street, where he found Alexander beating his wife. A gun fired. Aiken fell to the sidewalk mortally wounded.

Assistant Solicitor Edward A. Stephens conducted the prosecution and Attorneys T. J. Ripley and W. M. Bailey appeared for the defendant.

POLICE DEPARTMENT MAY REVISE PENSIONS

Drastic changes in pensions for aged and retired members of the Atlanta police department will be considered as a meeting this morning and will be recommended to the 1925 legislature, it was announced following a called meeting of members of the force Thursday in recorder's court room.

Changes in the present ordinance were declared inadequate and vastly inferior to those in other cities of the country. The meeting this morning has been called for 10 o'clock by Acting Chief E. L. Jett.

Bank Officers And Employees Are Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Bolling Jones entertained the officers and employees and their wives of the Fulton National bank at an elegant dinner party Thursday evening at the Piedmont Driving club in celebration of the 15th anniversary of the bank.

The guests were seated at a beautifully appointed table, placed in the ballroom. In the center of the table was a huge birthday cake, embossed in pastel-shaded flowers and adorned by 15 tiny pink candles. Bowls of spring flowers in exquisite pastel shades were placed at intervals over the table, alternating with silver candlesticks holding burning pink tapers.

Beautiful Flowers To Form Flag in Honor of Heroes

In memory of the fallen heroes of Georgia there has been planted on the Capitol grounds facing Washington street, near Gordon monument, 2,146 red, white and yellow tulips.

The whole, when in bloom, will form a most beautiful service flag 24 by 30 feet in length.

The center, composed of 250 yellow tulips, will form the symbolic Gold Star, 10 feet from point to point, resting on a background of 1,250 pure white tulips. The border of the flag will be formed of 666 bright red tulips.

This beautiful tribute to the Georgia boys who made the supreme sacrifice was planted by the War Mothers' Service Star Legion of Atlanta, of which Mrs. Sam D. Jones is life president, and through the courtesy of Governor Clifford Walker.

It will be a feature of the national convention of the Service Star Legion which will take place in Atlanta May 18-23 at the Biltmore hotel.

The bulbs are planted upon raised ground, so when in full bloom the flag will be seen from a distance. Effort is made to control their growth so they will reach perfection, as near as possible, at the convention time.

Impressive dedication services will take place when the flag is at its best. Should this time be previous to the convention, the dedication will take place; but it is the hope of the War Mothers that the blooms will be held back until the national delegates can be present at the dedication services.

Mrs. Charles E. Seiple, chairman, Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, co-chairman, are assisted by a committee composed of Mrs. John D. Grant, Mrs. Howard Bucknell, Mrs. Will Kiser and Mrs. Robert Maddox.

This committee, composed of members who are lovers of flowers and have wonderful gardens themselves, has been appointed by Mrs. Jones to serve also as decorating committee for the national convention in May.

Mrs. Harper Presented Cup At Sheltering Arms Party

Mrs. Marion S. Harper, past president of the Sheltering Arms association, was presented a handsome loving cup Thursday afternoon at the "get-together" party given at "Pineblum," the home of Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, in Druid Hills, who was recently elected president of the association.

The presentation speech was made by Mrs. P. G. Hanahan, in the absence of Mrs. Frank Logan, who was the first president of the association. Mrs. Hanahan was the first kindergarten teacher connected with the Sheltering Arms, and she expressed the sentiment of the association in general when she said the cup was given Mrs. Harper in appreciation of the fact that she had "led the forces to victory in building the new Osgood Sanders nursery on West Baker street."

A general report of the past activities of the association was read, preceding the social part of the program.

Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright was formally introduced by Mrs. Marion Harper, the outgoing president. The other newly-elected officers, who are Mrs. Albert S. Adams, Mrs. Robert Harvey, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Jr., and Mrs. William L. Royer, were also introduced by Mrs. Harper.

Decorations at Pineblum.

Pastel shaded flowers, filling baskets and vases, were used to decorate the apartments where the guests were received. The reception room, furnished in rich tones of blue, was decorated with vases and baskets, filled with yellow snapdragons and callulias.

Mrs. Mason Reads Tribute.

Mrs. Frank Mason read the following tribute to Mrs. Harper: "To Anne Lytle Harper, who, in the arduous position of president of the Sheltering Arms, gave herself unreservedly to the work of fostering and advancing its interests in one name which will always bring to us a thrill of pride; it is that of our retiring president, Mrs. Marion Harper. It is to her ability, foresight, enthusiasm, hard work and fine fighting qualities that we owe the erection of our beautiful new nursery of which we are so justly proud."

In just two years she has made the dream of 15 years come true! She caught the vision of pathetic little children in need; she rallied our lagging forces, set us an example by her own tireless service, to bless her life multiplied a thousand fold, and the result, as we know, is the new home. How could such a spirit fail to inspire us with the same force required by the old nursery? We are proud and grateful to have her as our president, and we are confident that she will continue working just the same as in the past.

"With our deepest, most heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Marion Harper, we join our prayers that the joy and comfort which she has so freely given to others may return to bless her life multiplied a thousand fold. Since she deems it best, we reluctantly allow her to lay down her burden of presidency, but we shall continue to hold her safe and warm in the arms of our devotion."

The table in the dining room was overlaid with a patch-work lace cloth, and a silver basket, holding various colored spring flowers adorned the center. Silver candlesticks, holding unshaded rose-colored candles, encircled the centerpiece. The buffet and side tables were decorated with white green Venetian bowls filled with pastel shaded flowers and candlesticks held rose-colored tapers.

Mrs. Brooks Morgan and Mrs. Charles E. Seiple were assisted in serving by Mrs. E. V. Gay, Mrs. Joel Hurt, Jr., Mrs. Dan Elkin, Mrs. Glenville Giddings, Mrs. Harrison Jones, Mrs. Jerry Osborne, Mrs. James Ragan, Mrs. Sam Slicer, Mrs. Winship Nunnally and Mrs. Robert Troutman poured tea. Assisting in entertaining were the chairman and treasurers of the four nurseries which are fostered by the association, including the Osgood Sanders, John Barclay, Cornelia Moore and Gate City. ## Resemblance Contest To Be Held Saturday.

A Baby Peggy six-reel feature picture, "The Darling of New York," and a Baby Peggy resemblance contest held in connection with the picture are attracting considerable interest among the numerous admirers of the little star, according to Mrs. Newton C. Wing, matinee chairman, who has been busy answering phone calls concerning the contest rules. Mrs. Wing states that no special costume is necessary, the only requirement being a resemblance of face and form. The winner will receive a "Baby Peggy" bracelet, its containing box also having Baby Peggy's picture and a personal message from the little star.

An elaborate program of dancing will precede the feature picture Saturday as a prologue, this being in charge of Mrs. William Chas. Spiker, who will direct the prologue for the month.

However, he said that Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of the international relations committee of the Woman's club, has arranged for the admiral to speak at a brilliant dinner to be given at the Woman's club Saturday, January 24.

During the world war the admiral was the senior officer on the Pacific coast, and at present he is assistant to the president of the American Aeronautical association and is making a lecture tour. The work incident to this tour, Cone said, has become so great that the admiral has found it necessary to cancel his lecture in the chamber of commerce. ## Honor Paid Women in Election Of Miss Blair as State Historian

Photograph by Thurston Hatcher.

Miss Ruth Blair, recently elected as state historian.

In the election of Miss Ruth Blair as state historian, a distinct honor has been accorded the women of Georgia. Miss Blair, as the first woman to hold a position of this kind, was elected by a board of ten of the state history officers. She succeeds Dr. Lucian Lamar Knight, who nominated her as his successor and who created this department of archives and history six years ago, a department which has become most important and assumed large and interesting proportions.

The appointment of Miss Blair recognizes this era as "the woman's age" and emphasizes the fact that we are, indeed, living under the nineteenth amendment.

Miss Blair, who is the daughter of the late Columbus and Anna Mozely Blair, of Douglas county, Georgia, is well equipped and able prepared for this responsible position. Following her graduation from high school she studied under private teachers. She served four years as legislative reference librarian in the state library and four years as secretary of this department of archives and history.

This department of archives and history, though comparatively new, has been of the greatest help in the publication of state records, including Georgia's statistical register—a book brought out every two years.

It has compiled and published Georgia's roster of the Revolution, the roster of the War of 1812, and soon have completed, compiled rosters of the other wars.

Georgia's public service records have been compiled also, consisting of records of every state and federal office that every Georgian has held between the years of 1743 and 1925.

Assistance is given in the compilation and publication of county histories, which thus preserve records and data that include valuable information.

There will be a meeting of the executive board of the Atlanta Woman's club this morning.

Among those who have made reservations are:

Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, Miss Eleanor Gay, Miss Eleanor Raul, Mrs. William J. Paul, Mrs. R. L. Turman, Mrs. Pearl Moley, Mrs. M. C. Buchanan, Mrs. George L. Turner, Mrs. George A. Maiton, Mrs. Julia P. Rather than carry them over to another season, Constitution subscribers can obtain them while the supply lasts at $4.95, which is considerably less than cost.

"Little Miss Georgia" doll walks, talks, sleeps, winks, blinks, rolls her eyes, and does everything else that the premier doll of all times would be expected to do. She is non-breakable, elaborately outfitted; has real hair and is over 24 inches tall.

This doll has readily sold at retail throughout the country at from $12.50 to $15.00.

Atlanta and suburban Constitution subscribers and their friends can obtain the dolls at the city circulation department, second floor, Constitution building. Out-of-town orders filled by mail in first and second zone at same price, but beyond second zone 25c should be added up to fourth zone and beyond that 50c additional.

CLOAK LIGHT BROWN WITH FIGURES GREEN

Beowulf and Grendel.

(Drawing: Grendel's Costume)

While slept the gootly Grendel in the feast hall, Heorot, Grendel roamed the moors nad fens, ever drawing nearer to this hall he meant to pillage. Within Heorot, only Beowulf slept out.

Bursting through the doors, Grendel seized the nearest Geatman, a noble thane—Hondscio—and dashing out his brains, devoured him. With cries of rage most terrible Beowulf closed in upon the monster and thus began the battle.

Clutching and clawing, Grendel sought to kill Beowulf, but this fierce warrior caught his hand with the grip which had strength of thirty men, and smote the monster with his free hand.

Grendel knew his hour had come and sought to disengage from the sturdy champion of the Geats.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Papier Mache. An occasional washing is necessary with papier-mache ornaments, but great care must be taken with them. Wash with a soft cloth moistened in warm water (just dampened, not wet.) Let dry and then rub the article well with a little sweet oil. Papier-mache articles should be dusted regularly, so that they do not gather dust and make them difficult to clean.

Household Topics. Garnish the dish, but not so much that it is difficult to carve or serve. A little vinegar in the rinse water with faded colored clothes will help to revive the colors.

Avoid hanging starched clothes in a strong wind, as the wind will blow out the starch.

Use the egg slicer to slice boiled beets. The slices will be more uniform and the task will be shorter.

3,000 Volunteers Wanted By Home Visitation Heads For City Canvass Jan. 30

Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Which Representatives of All Faiths
Are Present.

Calls will be made Sunday in all Protestant and Catholic churches and Sunday schools for 3,000 volunteers to take part in the home visitation which is to be observed in Atlanta, Decatur, East Point, College Park, Hapeville, and other adjoining sections on Friday afternoon, January 30. Calls will be made in all Jewish congregations on Friday and Saturday.

Plans for the immense task of visiting every home in greater Atlanta in two hours, leaving printed invitations in eight languages inviting everybody to attend the Sunday school, church or temple of their choice, and securing records of the church connection of every individual, to be given to the church organization preferred, were made late Thursday afternoon, in one of the most representative meetings ever held in the history of the city.

Chamber Is Packed.
The Chamber of Commerce auditorium was packed with leaders from the religious, social, educational, commercial, industrial and civic organizations of Atlanta. There were representatives from all Catholic, Jewish and Protestant denominations.

W. W. Orr, general chairman of the laymen's committee, presided. J. J. Spaulding, general vice chairman, who is on trip to Florida, was represented by Hughes Spaulding, Ralph Rosenbaum, general vice chairman, also was out of the city on a business trip, and he, too, was well represented by leaders from the Jewish temple and congregations.

General Chairman Orr stated that no movement had ever appealed to him so greatly as this movement, with its spirit of brotherhood and sane religious work. He said that Atlanta might widen her streets and build her skyscrapers but if she did not also widen her spirit of brotherly love and build righteous character in her citizenship, she would go backward instead of forward.

Durham Presents Plan.
J. Shreve Durham, Chicago, international superintendent of home visitation for the International Council of Religious Education, presented the plan for the work. The cooperation of every faith in the city has been secured.

R. A. Magill, general chairman of districts, with a representative committee, divided the city of Atlanta proper into 50 districts. There will be a headquarters in each district and volunteers living there will work in their own neighborhoods.

Adjoining towns will be divided into some nine or ten districts. All who volunteer in their services Sunday will be asked to give their names and addresses to their pastors, who will send them early Monday to R. S. Barker, general chairman of visitors, at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Postal cards will be mailed to all, telling them where they are to report for service, and calling all to a meeting of instructions at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, January 29, in Wesley Memorial auditorium, when Mr. Durham will give final instructions. Conservation plans were presented at the meeting Thursday by James Morton, general chairman conservation, who stated that large numbers

SENATE CONSIDERS POSTAL RATE BILL

Washington, January 22.—The administration postal-pay and rate-increase bill was subjected, at the outset of debate today in the senate, to an attack from the democratic side which aimed at elimination of all of the proposed rate advances.

A vote on the elimination proposal, which is in the form of a point of order, went over until tomorrow. If adopted it would leave the bill in substantially the same form as the pay measure passed in the last session and vetoed by President Coolidge.

Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, raised the point of order against the rate portion of the bill. He said that the bill would increase rates on the ground that all revenue legislation should originate in the house under terms of the constitution. Senator Jones, republican, Washington, who was presiding, ruled that the senate would have to decide the point, and a close vote is expected by both sides.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, in charge of the measure, intimated tonight if the point is sustained he will make an objection having the bill replaced by other legislation on the calendar. This would leave prior action on the legislation to the house, where it is yet to be decided upon by the post office committee.

BLAME DRINKING ORGY FOR MERCHANT MURDER

Miami, Fla., January 22.—As a climax to a roadhouse party attended by heavy drinking and general carousal, one member of a motor-touring party recently arrived here from Kansas City has been murdered and the other two are being questioned concerning the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Osthoff were questioned by the authorities Thursday morning. The body of their recent touring companion, Morris L. Simon, said to be a wealthy glass manufacturer, was found on a country road early Tuesday morning.

Osthoff told the authorities he and his wife had motored here from Kansas City with Simon and that he had attended a roadhouse party Monday night at which there was much drinking.

"We were all intoxicated, and the last I remember was when a truck driver found us sleeping in Simon's car and awoke us early Tuesday morning," Osthoff said.

CHESTNUT TO FACE CHARGE OF DRIVING CAR WHILE DRUNK

J. L. Chestnut, of 23 East avenue, Thursday night was held at police station under $1,000 bond on charges of operating a car while under the influence of intoxicants. His arrest followed an automobile accident at Edgewood avenue and Butler street.

Chestnut is said to have been responsible for the crash which occurred when his car collided with a truck driven by H. E. Young, of 57 Ellis street. The car was damaged badly. Officers Johnson and Cartwright made the arrest.

Missionary Conference Of Methodists Held In LaGrange Church

LaGrange, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—More than a score of pastors and laymen today attended the preachers' meeting and missionary conference of the LaGrange district Methodist Episcopal church. The sessions were held at the First Methodist church, of which Rev. John S. Jenkins is pastor. Dr. W. H. LaPrade, presiding elder of the district, presided, and plans for 1925 were discussed.

Dr. S. P. Wiggins, secretary of missions for the North Georgia conference, Dr. A. M. Pierce, editor of The Wesleyan Christian Advocate, and Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, all of Atlanta, represented the interests of their respective fields at the meeting. The principal address was made by The principal address was made by Activities.

Ministers attending the meeting included J. W. Kee, J. S. Strickland, W. P. Irvine, A. D. Echols, A. Sullivan, C. M. Burdell, J. P. Wolford, A. E. Scott, J. W. Veach, C. G. Butts, W. W. Benson, R. T. Smith, J. E. Russell, W. A. Maxwell and D. E. Cantrell.

SUCCESS OF OPIUM PARLEY PRECARIOUS

Geneva, January 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—If possible, the situation of the international opium conference became more precarious today, due to the failure of the American delegation to take part in the deliberations of the subcommittee assigned to draft the functions of the central board of control, which will supervise the traffic in narcotic drugs.

Edwin Neville, of the American group, is a member of this committee, which sat this afternoon. Some of the other members were inclined to interpret his absence as a form of coercion on the problem of opium smoking in the far east, which has split the conference. Emerging from the meeting, a delegate from a European power in whose far-eastern possessions opium smoking prevails said: "This is impossible. We actually refuse to be whipped into line this way. I have recommended to my chief that we go home."

CHILD RUNS INTO AUTO AND IS HURT SLIGHTLY

Jack Rogers, 8, of 14 A Cleburn avenue, was cut and bruised late Thursday afternoon when he is said to have run into a machine driven by R. W. Eubanks, of 921 Seaboard avenue. The accident occurred at Cleburne and Moreland avenues. Mr. Eubanks reported that the child started to cross the street and ran against his machine before he could stop.

MILLION-DOLLAR HOTEL PLANNED AT MACON

Macon, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—Members of the Chamber of Commerce tonight gave full endorsement to the winter resort hotel project, approved several days ago by the chamber directors.

This means that Macon will have a million-dollar winter resort hotel, according to P. T. Anderson, president of the trade body.

Arrangements have been made to finance the building of the structure. The hotel will have 200 rooms and will be located on a 470-acre tract of land on the estate of the late Senator A. O. Bacon.

Good Taste in Dressing

NECKLINES FOR STOUT FIGURES

And now I come to the woman who is confronted with a real problem in her dressing. I refer to the stout woman. Much care is needed in the selection of clothes and in the choice of every single accessory. I have heard it said that the reason all stout people have such very good dispositions is because their nerve ends are so well covered that they are not easily irritated. But I suspect that this is poor consolation to the stout woman who wants so desperately to get rid of some of her avoirdupois.

On the other hand, this good disposition should not make for carelessness. There are helpful rules to be followed in clothing the stout figure.

To get right down to fundamentals, there is the corseting. There was a time when it was thought that the salvation of the stout woman lay in breathless lacing. And what was the result? A woman so laced could not dispose of her excess flesh; she could only transfer its location, so to speak. Up went much of that flesh to the under part of the arms, and we saw the stout woman with her arms held out stiffly at her sides because there was no room for them to lie straight and easily. Or her bust would be pushed up so that her figure would resemble a badly stuffed pillow. No, tight lacing did not turn out successfully.

Fortunately, we have begun to realize that tight lacing does not solve the problem, and so we are getting more and more away from it. Proper, wise corseting, on the other hand, is of quite definite help. But this means principally the choice of a corset that will soften bulging lines and tend to straighten them.

Now, just as there are different degrees of thinness, so are there many degrees of "fatness." For this reason, I cannot say to the stout woman, "go without corsets." I can only say that I do know women whose figures are too full, and who, instead of coercing them into constricted discomfort, go without corsets, wear comparatively loose clothes, and as a result achieve an effect of flowing lines that conceal with surprising skill much of the excess flesh.

Of course, going back even further than corsets, there is dieting and exercise. Excellent books on both of these subjects can be obtained, and there is no doubt that both diet and exercise are helpful. But they should be employed with discrimination. Too violent exercise will fatigue the body and leave it sick and unhealthy. And a too severe diet will so weaken the constitution that it becomes an easy prey to any disease germ that is floating about in one's vicinity. Exercise, yes; diet, yes, if you like; but do both with discretion.

There Is the Corset.

And now to talk of clothes. The first consideration is the neck line. If your neck is short and inclined to be thick or fleshy, do not wear high collars. Keep your neck low, with the lines of your collar coming down as straight as possible. Remember, too, that with increased weight frequently comes a fullness at the back of the neck that should be concealed. Make sure that your collar are so shaped as to follow the line of the neck at the back as to cover that obstruction. Wear soft lace at your neck, blending, not contrasting, with the color of your frock. Remember always to keep your neck as inconspicuous as possible; to keep the necklines on your frocks and blouses as long as possible. This takes away from the stubbornness of the natural lines of the neck.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES.

LUXURIOUS BATHS.

There are all sorts of things you can do to a bath to make it both pleasant and luxurious. First of all, make it a daily habit so you'll miss it when you can't take it. Secondly, fill the tub up with plenty of water of either a soothing warmth or a refreshing and stimulating coolness, whichever you like best, and indulge in a lot of bath "frills."

These are suggestions: A shower—built into a three sided alcove if you happen to be planning your house and can afford it—or built over your regular tub if you can't install a shower cabinet. Or if you can't afford even this, a rubber hose with a spray nozzle, so you can hose yourself all over. This serves the same purpose and is almost as nice.

Perfumed salt baths: Buy a lot of sea salt in bags. I used to pay 25 water-to-make a quart. This, so it is said, was massaged into her skin all over immediately after her bath. It is both stimulating and astringent.

Plain washing soda—softens hard water.

Laura May: You can fluff the stray gray hairs with henna so they do not show. This is easily done without affecting the natural shade of the hair. You care to do this and desire information concerning some I will be glad to mail it to you. When requesting mailed replies, please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for forwarding.

Kate F. B.: A shiny red face probably results from a sluggish liver or imperfect elimination. If you eat a great deal of meat it might aggravate such a condition so it will be well if you simplify your diet and see if there is any improvement. If you do not overcome the tendency in this way, consult the doctor about it.

Tomorrow: Hair Brushes.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

State Service Board Will Not Supervise Jitneys and Busses

Commenting on a recent editorial in The Macon Telegraph, Chairman Paul Trammell, of the Georgia public service commission, Thursday declared that the commission has no present intention of taking supervision of jitneys and busses operated in Georgia.

One portion of the editorial in The Telegraph said: "Why will we stand like fools and dols until our railroads and street car lines are thrown into bankruptcy, and then, after it is too late, attempt a remedy? The machinery provided by the legislature ought to be ample in the authority and organization of the railroad or public service commission. The emergency manifestly exists and has existed for years. Is it possible our commission doesn't know any better, or does it just lack intellectual qualities? Hasn't anybody in Georgia got any?"

Chairman Trammell pointed out that although in the case of the Georgia Railway and Power company against the Atlanta Jitney association and a consolidated case brought by J. P. Allen and other merchants against the same defendants the commission held the authority to regulate busses and jitneys as common carriers, the order issued was only a temporary one.

The Georgia supreme court ruled in the case, Mr. Trammell said, that the commission had not taken over jurisdiction of jitneys and busses, or officially designated them as common carriers, and the commission has taken no further action, because the general assembly of Georgia had for three years defeated bills intended to empower the commission with such jurisdiction.

"The legislature evidently intends that the commission let motor vehicles alone," said Chairman Trammell.

FULTON GIVEN SHARE OF STATE GAS TAXES

State Treasurer W. J. Speer Thursday mailed $2,177.18 to Fulton county as its share of the gas and oil taxes, turned over to the treasurer Wednesday and Thursday by Comptroller General W. A. Wright.

Nearly $970,000 of receipts from the 3-cent tax during the last quarter of 1924 has been turned over to the state treasury by the comptroller, through W. B. Harrison, deputy in charge of gas tax collection. Of this amount, $331,137.91 was divided among the counties of Georgia on a state highway mileage basis, computed by Assistant Treasurer J. O. Anderson.

The distribution to counties Thursday was the largest for any quarter since the gas tax was levied, the amount for the previous quarter having been $325,791.88, it was said.

Incomplete figures shows a total for the year of $3,344,563.92. The tax, when levied by the legislature, had been expected to produce $3,000,000 annual revenue.

How to Banish Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, Jacobs' Drug Stores and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will be as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

Girl Takes Drug And Begs Doctors To Let Her Die

Mrs. Mildred Beal, 22, of the Empire hotel, late Thursday night begged Grady hospital doctors to let her die, after taking a quantity of poison with avowed suicidal intent. Her condition is not regarded as serious, doctors reported.

Hotel employees heard her moans and went to her room to investigate. She was found in a prostrate condition and an ambulance was called. Mrs. Beal refused to tell her motive for poisoning herself.

Only Forty Dishonest Millionaires in U. S., Dr. Conwell Says

Atlantic City, January 22.—Of 4,043 millionaires in this country, only 40 are dishonest, Dr. Russell Conwell, president of Temple university in Philadelphia, declared in an address here.

"Those 40," Dr. Conwell asserted, "are the ones whose names always are in the headlines. Most rich men whose lives I have investigated are honest."

Women are better fitted naturally for handling the details of finance, the speaker said, and they are increasing in number in the ranks of the country's millionaires.

VALUABLE DIAMOND LOOT OF BURGLARS IN RAID ON HOME

A diamond brooch valued at $650 was taken late Thursday night by surprised burglars who fled the residence of J. W. Hinchliff, of 3 Ponce de Leon court. Mrs. Hinchliff returned home from a visit and the bold burglars, who a short while before smashed a glass panel in the front door, escaped.

Mrs. Hinchliff found clothing and other valuables, including the family silver, bundled in a large bedspread in the middle of the floor. The burglars left the loot away as unnecessary impediments in the quick getaway. There were two, Mrs. Hinchliff said.

Stars of Opera List of Reference Books Is Given for Contestants Are Announced For U. S. Oratory Honors

Numerous Inquiries Are Received Details of Contest Sponsored in Georgia by The Constitution.

Following announcement last Sunday of the program of grand opera to be presented here by the Metropolitan Opera company during the week of April 20, the Atlanta Music Festival association on Thursday gave out the list of singers who will appear in the seven operas to be sung here.

On Sunday, with the initial announcement, a tentative program of singers for the different operas was given, but in nearly every case one or two alternate singers were announced for each role. Now comes the announcement of the definite casts for each of the operas and, barring unforeseen accidents, it may generally be accepted as the final casts for the entire week.

List of Singers.

The list of singers now chosen is as follows:
Monday, April 20, "La Gioconda."
Ponselle, Teyla, Gordon, Lauri-Volpi and DeLuca.
Tuesday, April 21, "Boris."
Aida, Bada, Howard, Tibbett, Didur and Tokatyan.
Wednesday, April 22, "La Juive."
Ponselle, Teyla, Gordon, Lauri-Volpi and DeLuca.
Thursday, April 23, "Lohengrin."
Clausen, Tacher, Bohnen and Tibbett.
Friday, April 24, "Mefistofele."
Lauri-Volpi, Aida, Peralta and Howard.
Saturday, April 25, "Tales of Hoffman."
Ponselle, Teyla, Gordon, Lauri-Volpi and DeLuca.
Sunday, April 26, "Tosca."
Martiniello and Scotti.

It was announced Thursday by the Atlanta hotels that reservations for grand opera week already have begun to pour in and it is expected that every hotel will be filled to capacity for the week. If this proves correct, it will mean a larger out-of-town patronage than ever before, past years always having seen some visitors forced to forego the opera season here because of their inability to secure hotel accommodations. The addition of several new hotels during the past year has largely increased the city's hotel capacity.

The selection of stars for the opera, as announced above, promises a magnificent season. Several of the star roles are to be sung by performers whose work in those particular roles has made operative history, notably that of Chailapin in "Mefistofele," Ponselle in "La Gioconda" and "La Juive," Tibbett in "Lohengrin," and Borska, the new soprano, in "Tales of Hoffman." The role of "Tales of Hoffman," the role she will sing here.

The first prize winner will then compete with state prize winners from the other states in this zone at Nashville, Tenn. The country is divided into seven zones and the seven zone winners will then meet in the national contest in Washington, D. C., with President Coolidge presiding. Prizes for the national contest are: first prize, $2,000; second prize, $1,000; third prize, $500; fourth prize, $250; fifth prize, $100; sixth prize, $50; seventh prize, $25.

Professor Stewart Aiding.
The Constitution is enabled to conduct this contest in Georgia only through the cooperation of Professor J. S. Stewart, president of the Georgia High School association and the twelve district high school associations. Professor Stewart has arranged the details of the contest for this year and is gladly giving of his efforts.

1926 Convention Of Lasky Forces At Jacksonville

Jacksonville was selected as the next convention city Thursday afternoon by unanimous vote of delegates to the Famous Players-Lasky convention, at the fourth day's session held in the Biltmore hotel.

Election of officers and continued discussion of entertainment of the public, and exploitation, will feature the closing sessions of the convention today.

Among the principal speakers Thursday morning who pointed out the need of introducing new and young talent into the movie and production of pictures that would interest the farmers and other classes of people throughout the country were DeSalle Harrison, Atlanta representative of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America; John T. Alsop, Jr., mayor of Jacksonville, Fla.; Arthur Lucas, of Savannah; John Arthur, of the Canadian corporation; J. L. Ryan, Earl Dennison, Lem Stewart and J. L. Barry.

Delegates to the convention have been extensively entertained while in the city, and a conclusion to the most successful convention the annual banquet will be held in the ballroom of the Biltmore at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Jesse Lasky, vice president of the organization, is scheduled to make the principal address.

Wife Sends Wrong Note to Husband, Divorce Results

Edinburgh, Scotland, January 22.—Paul Kilburn, a musician, received a love letter from his wife, who was in London. In it she apologized for using odd bits of newspaper, explaining that she was in a hurry. Kilburn idly turned over one of the pages. On its back was written, in masculine handwriting: "Dear Margaret, I am in a devil of a hurry. Let me know whether I shall come Wednesday or Thursday. I can only stay one night. Where shall I stop? Best love, yours, H. B. R."

Kilburn's wife was named Margaret, and he didn't know any "H. B. R." He wrote to the police to investigate, and his wife confessed misconduct. Kilburn was granted a divorce.

for time to insure the success of the undertaking.

Referring again to the need of special literature on the federal constitution, in order that the hundreds of high school students who plan to enter the competition may study the best authorities before preparing their original orations, it may be noted that over 200 high schools in the state have libraries of 500 volumes or more. It is probable, however, that but few of these deal with the subject chosen for the orations.

Women's clubs, P. T. A.'s and the bar associations in the different towns will be glad, it has been suggested, to have the hundreds of copies of the books that are listed herewith as possible. Selections may be ordered either through local book dealers, or by direct order from the publisher, a New York, which company allows special discounts to libraries, either for cash or c. o. d. sales.

Not only will these books be valuable to the contestants in the contest, but they will also be extremely helpful in study and class room instruction this year, and in years to come. They will, in fact, prove one of the most valuable additions that can be made to any school library.

The books are divided into three groups. The first group covers the immediate subject of the federal constitution. Special importance is attached to the fact that all of these books are brief.

The second group deals with the seven leaders whose relationship to the constitution is dealt with in the contest. The third group is made up of books on the general subject of constitutional government, and should prove helpful to those students desiring to make intensive research on specific phases of the various subjects. It is taken for granted that all contestants will study the constitution in itself, and the extremely valuable insight into the entire subject can be obtained through use of selections from The Federalist.

Books suggested are as follows:
C. A. BEARD—"An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution of the U. S." (Macmillan, 1913). This book is a masterpiece of the movement for a stable government and shows the effect which the constitution has had on its subsequent development.
MAX PARSONS—"The Framing of the Constitution of the U. S." (Tale Talents Press, 1921). Based on the actual record of the constitutional convention, shows how conflicting programs were blended, and the results thereof.
JOHN FISKE—"The Federal Period of American History." (Macmillan, 1917). Deals primarily with the bridge of the gap between the articles of confederation and the constitution. In addition the story of the formation and adoption of the constitution.
B. THORPE—"The Federal Period of American History." (Putnam, 1917). By the director of the national historical society, devoted to the development of a bird's-eye view of our constitutional development. An appendix contains the three prize-winning essays of the 1924 contest.

F. N. THORPE—"A Short Constitutional History of the U. S." (Little, Brown, 1920). Traces the development of the constitutional idea in America. Describes the formation, adoption and ratification of the federal constitution in detail.

"Buffalo Bill's" Cousin Here in $10,000 Sprint

BY W. J. MAHONEY, JR.

Jack Cody, of Vancouver, Wash., Indian fighter of pioneer days and first cousin to the illustrious Indian hunter and scout, the late William Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," is making a determined bid for a $10,000 prize offered by his native state.

A grizzled old veteran of eighty summers, his long white beard flowing over a rustic and worn coat, and hunched in the seat of his flag-decked wagon, Cody drove into Atlanta Thursday afternoon behind his blundering white horse on the last lap of his ten-thousand-mile trip from Vancouver to Washington, D. C.

To win the prize offered by the state of Washington, Cody must cover 10,000 miles of circuitous route by April 2, 1925, with the same horse and wagon. "And I've only 600 more miles to go," he declared—his eyes glistening with a sense of victory.

The prize, open to all comers for a number of years, was offered by the state of Washington in the hope of securing valuable historical data in the accomplishment of the feat. "That it is no easy one is evinced in the failure of nine other determined contestants."

The winner must make the entire trip without the expenditure of one penny—for himself, the horse or the wagon. He must not hunt. He must not accept gifts, either of money or food. It is permissible to accept shelter for the horse during rough weather but he must sleep in or under the wagon. At each halt he must get the signature of some city official in a book that he carries for the purpose.
